Mundt Disputes Freeman's View

Senator Claims Estes 'Criminal' Action Condoned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., strove Friday to establish that Billie Sol Estes was guilty of crime in his cotton-allotment dealings and the Agriculture Department condoned the Texan's action.

Under sharp cross-examination by the South Dakota Republican, Secretary of Agriculture Orville E. Freeman refused to acknowledge that this was true. He argued that a finding of civil wrongdoing—even if sustained in court—does not constitute a crime.

Freeman's position won the support of the Democratic members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which is inquiring into Estes' tangled affairs in an effort to see if the promoter enjoyed improper favors in his extensive dealings with the Agriculture Department.

Freeman Claim Challenged

Mundt challenged Freeman's claim that he has taken adequate steps to prevent future operations of the kind which led the department to levy a $554,000 penalty against Estes for improperly acquiring cotton-planting allotments for more than 3,000 acres of land. The penalty has not been collected and is subject to court review.

Mundt, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said he could not understood what he called the reluctance of the department to plug a loophole.

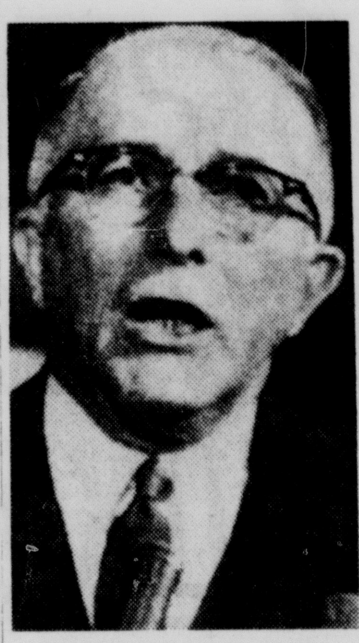
Freeman came under cross-examination Friday after having read to the subcommittee Thursday a 50-page statement on the Estes case.

In that, he acknowledged the department had moved too slowly in its investigation of Estes and had made mistakes. But he reiterated no special favors were extended and that the government will lose no money because of Estes' dealings.

How Estes Operated

The exchanges Friday centered largely around Estes' success in getting the allotments of farmers who had been dispossessed when their lands were taken for public improvements such as reservoirs and highways. He did this by selling land to the farmers and leasing it back along with their allotments.

Mundt bore down on the fact that Estes was allowed to remain on a National Cotton Advisory Committee even after department officials had decided he acted improperly in obtaining the allotments. The Dakotan sought to show that this constituted condoning of a criminal act.



URGES TAX CUTS—H. Ladd Plumley, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, yesterday called for immediate income and corporation tax cuts as a business stimulant. He said the chamber's proposal includes rate reductions from top to bottom of the individual income tax scale and a reduction in the present corporation rate from 52 to 47 per cent. (AP Photofax)

Jetliner, 115 Aboard, Makes Safe Landing

HILL AFB, Utah (UPI) — A United Air Lines jet airliner with 108 passengers and seven crewmen landed safely Friday after losing hydraulic pressure in flight.

Ray Dunlap, district sales manager for UAL, said the landing was "precautionary" after Capt. J. W. Barlow of San Francisco, the pilot, reported hydraulic pressure had dropped. Dunlap said shortly before the landing that Barlow reported hydraulic pressure had come up again and the landing gear was lowered normally.

Speedy Return Of Fugitive Spy By Israel Seen

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Speedy deportation seemed to be in store Friday for Dr. Robert A. Soblen, the bail-jumping Soviet spy who sought asylum in Israel from life imprisonment in the United States.

Israeli papers urged that Soblen be ousted, some citing his presence as a potential irritant in relations between Washington and Jerusalem.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's Cabinet had a flurry of activity on receipt of a request from the U.S. State Department, via Israeli Ambassador Abe Harman, for return of Soblen to begin serving the term for which he was supposed to surrender Thursday in New York.

It was learned authoritatively the government is not willing to grant the 62-year-old Jewish psychiatrist a visa that would permit him to stay in Israel, whether as a short-term visitor or as a settler under the 1950 Law of Return.

The legal right of every Jew to settle in Israel is a fundamental principle of this nation, but the government retains—and uses—the right to expel undesirables.

Interior Minister Y. C. Shapiro has authority to deport persons with criminal records, though he must state his reasons and perhaps defend the expulsion orders in court. In this case he was expected to consult with Ben-Gurion and the foreign and justice ministries as well.

Soblen remained in the hospital ward of Ramleh Prison near Tel Aviv, where he was arrested Thursday on suspicion of using fraudulent documents to enter Israel on his arrival from New York via an Air France liner Tuesday.

A prison source said Soblen underwent a blood test which confirmed he has leukemia.

Leg Surgery On Churchill Successful

British Warrior's Fractured Thigh Bones Are Pinned

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was reported sleeping peacefully early Saturday after a successful operation Friday night to pin the bones of his fractured left thigh.

The operation took place in mid-evening. After midnight, Middlesex Hospital confirmed that the 87-year-old statesman was comfortable.

Doctors carried out the 90-minute operation shortly after Sir Winston returned home in a jet ambulance plane from the Riviera, where he suffered the break Thursday.

1½-Hour Operation

After being on the operating table 1½ hours, plus an additional half-hour for removal of stitches and related procedures, Sir Winston was wheeled out of the operating room.

The medical bulletin said:

"The fixation of the fracture of the neck of the femur was carried out this evening successfully, and Sir Winston's condition after the operation is at present satisfactory."

A medical spokesman said Churchill would probably remain under the effects of the anaesthetic for some three hours.

The bulletin was signed by Lord Moran, Churchill's personal physician, and the team of surgeons that performed the operation.

Met At Airport By Wife

The decision to operate followed urgent consultations by doctors after Churchill arrived.

Heading the surgical team were Prof. John Seddon and Dr. Philip H. Newman, considered two of Britain's leading orthopedic specialists.

Churchill, waving and flashing his old V-for-victory sign, was taken to Middlesex Hospital after Lady Churchill met him at London Airport, kissed and comforted him.

Three Britons Tell Of Captivity

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Three Britons, freed after a month as captives of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, told newsmen Friday they were dragged from village to village with ropes around their necks like dogs or cattle.

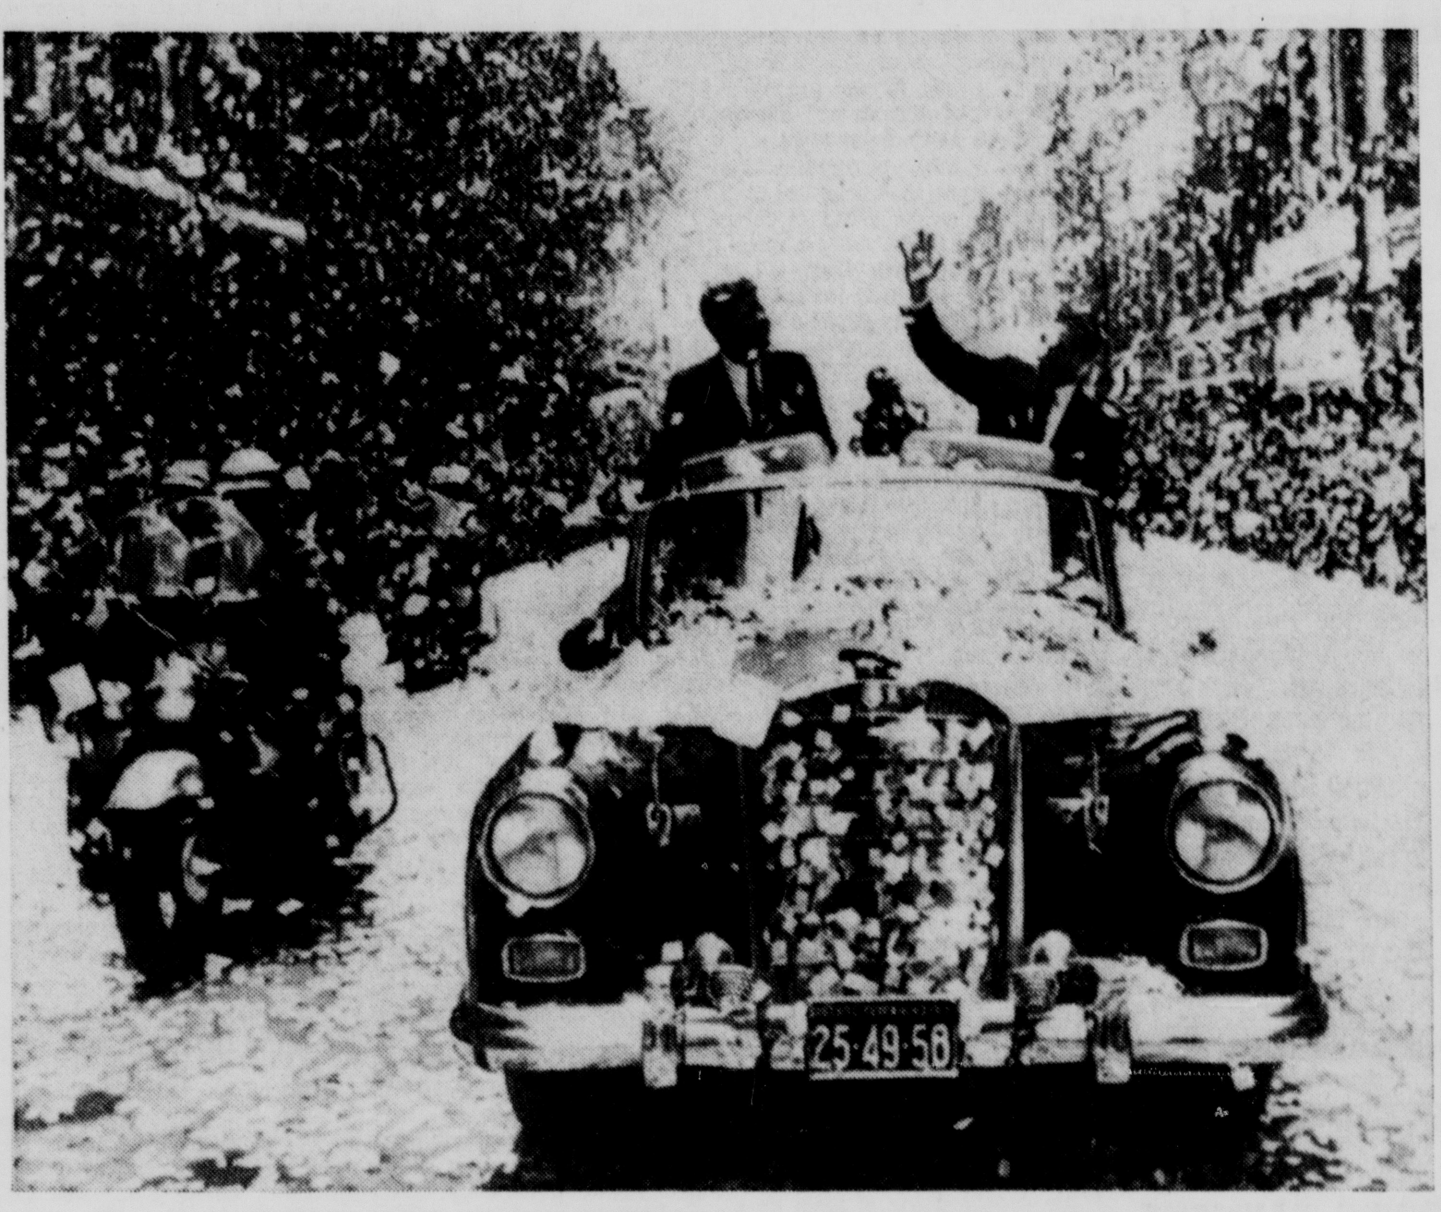
A fourth Briton who shared in the experience was not at the news conference.

But toward the end of their captivity, said Mervin Brown, British embassy counsellor, "We were tying and untying ourselves and putting the end of the ropes in our pockets without having someone pull us."

Aside from being tied up, Brown said, all four were given enough food and were well-treated, but had given up hope of being freed.

Brown and Maj. Clark Leaphard who did not attend the news conference, set out from Vientiane in late May to effect the release of two British doctors, Colin Prentice and Anthony Bryceson. The doctors had been captured on May 26 while visiting a string of clinics in southern Laos.

All four were set free Thursday at Ban Tha Theng, in the south, and were picked up by helicopter.



Kennedy In Blizzard Of Confetti

President Kennedy of the U. S. and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos are showered with tons of confetti and paper as they travel down one of Mexico City's boulevards shortly after Kennedy's arrival yesterday for a three-day visit. A throng estimated at 1½ million persons turned out to cheer the American chief executive in probably the wildest greeting ever accorded a foreign visitor in Mexico. Later the two presidents went into conference. (AP Photofax)

Smiling U.S. Chief Hailed By 1½ Million

Greeting Is Most Tumultuous Given Foreign Visitor

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

Mexican and U.S. officials estimated a million and a half people filled the parade route as the U.S. chief executive arrived for a three-day visit to herald closer political and economic ties between the two nations. In the uproarious excitement, one enthussiastic Mexican tumbled from his perch atop a streetcar but was unhurt.

The city's streets looked as if they had been hit by a sudden blizzard of red, white, blue and green confetti and balloons as he made his entry into the capital.

In two speeches, at the airport and at a luncheon, the President referred to a common United States-Mexican heritage of revolution which he said will not be completed until the fruits of freedom and social and economic progress are extended to all.

"Arriba, Kennedy"

His reference to the United States and Mexico as "children of revolution" brought shouts and organized chants of, "Arriba, Kennedy; Arriba, Jacqueline" for the President and his wife from crowds of students at the airport. The shouts meant long live, or hooray!

The enthusiasm shown by the students, who often are the leaders in any anti-Yankee movement in Latin America, appeared significant at the outset of the visit. Nowhere was there a sign of anti-Yankeeism.

The President's linking of the spirit of revolution with his appeal for social and economic reforms seemed likely to have given his Alliance for Progress program a strong boost in this key nation.

At a luncheon given by President Adolfo Lopez Mateos at the national palace, President Kennedy again declared that Mexico and the United States have a "common heritage of revolution."

Allies By Necessity

"While geography has made us neighbors, tradition has made us friends," he said. "Economics has made us partners. And necessity has made us allies—in a vast Alianza Para el Progreso (Alliance ance of Progress). Those whom nature hath so joined together, let no man put asunder.

"As President Lopez Mateos has said, the ideals of the Mexican revolution will not be fulfilled 'while there is even one child without a school, one illiterate adult, one family without its own home, and while there is even one farm or city worker who does not receive enough salary to lead a decent life.'"

The speeches set the stage for private talks in which the two chief executives are expected to delve into Mexican-United States issues, including differences that developed early this year over how to treat Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba. At the Punta del Este conference Mexico was a holdout against complete ostracizing of Cuba from the American family of nations.

GOP Stockpile Probers Raise Politics Cry

The GOP attack was spearheaded by Sen. Prescott Bush, Conn., supported by Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Md.

Bush said Arthur S. Flemming, defense mobilization chief in the Eisenhower Administration, had been the object of "defamatory criticism" as part of a Democratic attempt to make the inquiry a vendetta against the GOP administration.

Subcommittee Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., denied the charge. He said testimony during hearings so far showed clearly that Flemming, as director of the stockpile program during the Eisenhower years, had misused the stockpiling law.

Symington said Flemming used the law as a mechanism for industry price supports—a purpose "for which it was not intended, and I say that is a violation of the law."

Bush's outburst came as the subcommittee resumed hearings into lead and zinc purchases for the strategic materials cache in the late 1950s.

Symington said more than $200 million was spent for unneeded lead and zinc during the Eisenhower administration when inventories already were overflowing.

Bush contended it was unfair for the subcommittee to make serious charges in public against Flemming before giving him a chance to explain his stockpile procurement policies.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lang will visit Iceland July 11-18, the government announced.

Immediate Tax Cuts Proposed By C Of C

WASHINGTON (AP) — New pressure for immediate tax cuts came Friday from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which outlined what it called a program of massive aid for the economy.

The chamber proposed quick reductions totaling $5.5 to $7.5 billion all along the line in corporation and income taxes, with the biggest cuts in upper income brackets.

Putting off such action, the chamber said, "not only courts the disaster of a recession in the United States but its spread to Canada" and the rest of the free world.

In the Senate, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, renewed his urging for a tax cut now, saying he saw no reason to wait until next year.

Humphrey was backed by Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., a member of the Senate Finance Committee, who said, "If we are going to have a tax reduction the time to have it is now."

Smathers told the Senate prompt action would "change the direction of the economy before it is too late."

The Chamber of Commerce said it realized its proposal would throw the federal budget further out of balance, but it said the best hope "for future balanced budgets and fiscal sanity lies in removing immediately these tax rate deterrents to economic growth."

It proposed:

1. Cutting the top-bracket individual income tax rate from 91 to 65 per cent.
2. Splitting the lowest individual bracket and imposing a 15 per cent rate on the lower portion. The present 20 per cent would apply on the second $1,000 of taxable income, so that the over-all effective rate for the present bottom-bracket would be 17.5 per cent.
3. Adjusting all in-between rates proportionately.
4. Reducing the corporation rate from 52 to 47 per cent.

"Reduction of personal income taxes will increase take-home pay and hopefully reduce the pressure for wage increases," said chamber President H. Ladd Plumley.

It was the first such proposal ever advanced by the businessmen's organization and it came in the wake of a demand by organized labor for immediate tax cuts—but along different lines.

The AFL-CIO proposed that major reductions be made in the lower income brackets, to provide more buying power at the consumer level. Asked why the chamber put its emphasis on the higher brackets, Plumley said the chamber's directors believe the greatest urgency is to release funds for productive investment, rather than for the building of consumer demand.

Anna Rosenberg Will Be Married To Paul Hoffman

NEW YORK (AP) — Anna M. Rosenberg, an influential member of the Democratic party, said Friday she will be married July 19 to Paul G. Hoffman, a corporation executive who is now director of the United Nations Special Fund.

Hoffman, 71, is a widower and has six children. Mrs. Rosenberg, 59, recently obtained a divorce from her husband, Julius, and has one son.

A spokesman at the public relations firm Mrs. Rosenberg owns and directs said the exact time and place of the wedding had not been determined, but that it was planned for New York.

Hoffman, former president and board chairman of the Studebaker Corp. and former president of the Ford Foundation, was the first administrator of the Marshall Plan. A Republican, he has served as a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations and as an official of various governmental agencies.

Eastland Acts To Nullify Court Prayer Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee introduced a constitutional amendment Friday he said would "completely nullify both the effect and implication" of the Supreme Court's prayer decision.

His double-barrelled proposal also would alleviate in part what he called "the awesome consequences" of another Supreme Court ruling last Monday which overturned a post office ban on mailing of three magazines the postmaster general declared obscene literature.

Eastland was joined in offering the amendment by Sens. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., both members of the Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga.

Earlier Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a former attorney general of New York, said that in his judgment the court's decision barring official prayers in public schools is "much narrower in its scope than the public debate about it suggests."

The first section of Eastland's proposed amendment reads, "Nothing in this Constitution shall prohibit the offering of prayers or the reading of the Bible as part of the program of any public school or other public place in the United States."

The second section states, "The right of each state to decide on the basis of its own public policy the question of decency and morality, and to enact legislation with respect thereto, shall not be abridged."

Compromise Medicare Plan Unveiled In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bipartisan version of President Kennedy's medical care plan for the aged was unveiled Friday in an effort to save the politically potent proposal from defeat.

Health benefits for the nation's elderly would be financed by raising Social Security payroll taxes $13 a year for every worker making $5,200 or more, and a similar increase for their employers.

The compromise retains the heart of Kennedy's plan to provide health insurance through the Social Security system, an approach violently opposed by the American Medical Association and many Republicans.

But a number of provisions — including the option of carrying private insurance partly paid for by the government — were written in as an effort to win support. Five Republicans joined administration forces in sponsoring the compromise.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N. M., sponsor of Kennedy's original plan, introduced the new bill, setting the stage for one of the hottest election year congressional fights. Full-scale Senate debate was scheduled to open Monday.

The bill would provide health benefits for an estimated 15 million persons aged 65 and over who are covered by Social Security. This was Kennedy's original plan.

Added in the compromise was coverage for 2.5 million persons not under Social Security.

Ike Believes Kennedy Is In Clutches Of "Big Spenders"

Former President Regards Big Military Spending Boost As Unjustified

EDITOR'S NOTE—A week ago former President Dwight D. Eisenhower made a cryptic, surprise call for a cut in defense spending. This puzzled even some members of his own Republican party and a Democrat—Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri—has called on Eisenhower to elaborate. Arthur Edson of The Associated Press Washington bureau visited Gettysburg, Eisenhower's home, and has written an authoritative analysis of the former president's views on this matter.

By ARTHUR EDSON

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower firmly believes that President Kennedy is in the clutches of "the big spenders"—and that this is best illustrated in the administration's military spending plans.

Eisenhower is disturbed that military requests have gone up around $8 billion since he left office. It's his belief that nothing has happened that is so ominous to justify such an increase.

The former president won't go into details and spell out where the $48.3 billion military budget presented by Kennedy can be cut.

And he has made no public comment beyond the speech of a week ago that took even members of his Republican party by surprise.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate GOP dinner in Washington, Eisenhower said:

"I must record my personal belief that substantial amounts in our current defense budgets reflect unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts.

"Accordingly, I personally believe—with, I am sure, very little company in either party—that the defense budget should be substantially reduced."

Although Eisenhower refuses to go beyond this public statement, it is known that he feels that international crises have unfortunately become a way of life, that there is no reason to panic when a new one arises, and that the United States should set a course and stick steadfastly to it regardless of what the Communists may do.

Military requests, Eisenhower thinks, have a habit of creeping up steadily.

Indeed, this occurred in his own administration, when the military budget rose from $35.5 billion in 1957 to $41 billion in 1961. But he thinks this increase came largely because of the switch to costly missiles while still trying to keep other defenses ship-shape.

Although Eisenhower won't go into details on where military spending could be cut—he no longer has access to the information on which the requests are based—it is known he believes the Army ground forces are too large.

He believes this is chiefly because Army leaders, jealous of other branches of the service that need and get more costly equipment, try to balance accounts by pushing for more men, instead of being happy at getting by for less.

Eisenhower doesn't see any need for Kennedy to call up the Reserves, although he thinks sending troops into Berlin may have had some morale building value in Western Germany.

Senate OKs Compromise Export Control Act Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate quickly approved by voice vote Friday a compromise bill extending the Export Control Act for three years. The House may complete passage Saturday.

The action followed an overnight reversal by House conferees of their stand on an amendment opposed by the Kennedy administration.

The conferees originally had deadlocked and finally decided on a simple one-year extension of present law.

But the Senate refused to accept this Thursday night and instead instructed its conferees by a 44-33 vote to make another try for the Senate amendments.

The act, which contains authority for the government to ban shipments to unfriendly nations, expires Saturday midnight.

The compromise bill would provide a three-year extension. As agreed upon in Friday's conference, it also contains these amendments:

1. A declaration of policy that this country seeks to develop with its allies to the maximum extent possible a uniform trading policy with Communist nations.
2. A declaration of policy that the United States will use its economic resources and advantages in trade with Communist-dominated nations to further American security and foreign policy objectives.
3. A section contained in both original versions which would make repeated or willful violations of export controls a felony. They now are misdemeanors.
4. A requirement that an export license be denied if the president finds the article in question would contribute significantly to the military or economic potential of a Communist nation in a way which would prove detrimental to the national security and welfare of the United States.

GOP Stockpile Probers Raise Politics Cry

The GOP attack was spearheaded by Sen. Prescott Bush, Conn., supported by Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Md.

Bush said Arthur S. Flemming, defense mobilization chief in the Eisenhower Administration, had been the object of "defamatory criticism" as part of a Democratic attempt to make the inquiry a vendetta against the GOP administration.

Subcommittee Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., denied the charge. He said testimony during hearings so far showed clearly that Flemming, as director of the stockpile program during the Eisenhower years, had misused the stockpiling law.

Symington said Flemming used the law as a mechanism for industry price supports—a purpose "for which it was not intended, and I say that is a violation of the law."

Bush's outburst came as the subcommittee resumed hearings into lead and zinc purchases for the strategic materials cache in the late 1950s.

Symington said more than $200 million was spent for unneeded lead and zinc during the Eisenhower administration when inventories already were overflowing.

Bush contended it was unfair for the subcommittee to make serious charges in public against Flemming before giving him a chance to explain his stockpile procurement policies.

Immediate Tax Cuts Proposed By C Of C

WASHINGTON (AP) — New pressure for immediate tax cuts came Friday from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which outlined what it called a program of massive aid for the economy.

The chamber proposed quick reductions totaling $5.5 to $7.5 billion all along the line in corporation and income taxes, with the biggest cuts in upper income brackets.

Putting off such action, the chamber said, "not only courts the disaster of a recession in the United States but its spread to Canada" and the rest of the free world.

In the Senate, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, renewed his urging for a tax cut now, saying he saw no reason to wait until next year.

Humphrey was backed by Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., a member of the Senate Finance Committee, who said, "If we are going to have a tax reduction the time to have it is now."

Smathers told the Senate prompt action would "change the direction of the economy before it is too late."

The Chamber of Commerce said it realized its proposal would throw the federal budget further out of balance, but it said the best hope "for future balanced budgets and fiscal sanity lies in removing immediately these tax rate deterrents to economic growth."

It proposed:

1. Cutting the top-bracket individual income tax rate from 91 to 65 per cent.

2. Splitting the lowest individual bracket and imposing a 15 per cent rate on the lower portion. The present 20 per cent would apply on the second $1,000 of taxable income, so that the over-all effective rate for the present bottom-bracket would be 17.5 per cent.

3. Adjusting all in-between rates proportionately.

4. Reducing the corporation rate from 52 to 47 per cent.

"Reduction of personal income taxes will increase take-home pay and hopefully reduce the pressure for wage increases," said chamber President H. Ladd Plumley.

It was the first such proposal ever advanced by the businessmen's organization and it came in the wake of a demand by organized labor for immediate tax cuts—but along different lines.

The AFL-CIO proposed that major reductions be made in the lower income brackets, to provide more buying power at the consumer level. Asked why the chamber put its emphasis on the higher brackets, Plumley said the chamber's directors believe the greatest urgency is to release funds for productive investment, rather than for the building of consumer demand.

Anna Rosenberg Will Be Married To Paul Hoffman

NEW YORK (AP) — Anna M. Rosenberg, an influential member of the Democratic party, said Friday she will be married July 19 to Paul G. Hoffman, a corporation executive who is now director of the United Nations Special Fund.

Hoffman, 71, is a widower and has six children. Mrs. Rosenberg, 59, recently obtained a divorce from her husband, Julius, and has one son.

A spokesman at the public relations firm Mrs. Rosenberg owns and directs said the exact time and place of the wedding had not been determined, but that it was planned for New York.

Hoffman, former president and board chairman of the Studebaker Corp. and former president of the Ford Foundation, was the first administrator of the Marshall Plan. A Republican, he has served as a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations and as an official of various governmental agencies.

Eastland Acts To Nullify Court Prayer Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee introduced a constitutional amendment Friday he said would "completely nullify both the effect and implication" of the Supreme Court's prayer decision.

His double-barrelled proposal also would alleviate in part what he called "the awesome consequences" of another Supreme Court ruling last Monday which overturned a post office ban on mailing of three magazines the postmaster general declared obscene literature.

Eastland was joined in offering the amendment by Sens. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., both members of the Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga.

Earlier Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a former attorney general of New York, said that in his judgment the court's decision barring official prayers in public schools is "much narrower in its scope than the public debate about it suggests."

The first section of Eastland's proposed amendment reads, "Nothing in this Constitution shall prohibit the offering of prayers or the reading of the Bible as part of the program of any public school or other public place in the United States."

The second section states, "The right of each state to decide on the basis of its own public policy the question of decency and morality, and to enact legislation with respect thereto, shall not be abridged."

Former President Regards Big Military Spending Boost As Unjustified

EDITOR'S NOTE—A week ago former President Dwight D. Eisenhower made a cryptic, surprise call for a cut in defense spending. This puzzled even some members of his own Republican party and a Democrat—Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri—has called on Eisenhower to elaborate. Arthur Edson of The Associated Press Washington bureau visited Gettysburg, Eisenhower's home, and has written an authoritative analysis of the former president's views on this matter.

By ARTHUR EDSON

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower firmly believes that President Kennedy is in the clutches of "the big spenders"—and that this is best illustrated in the administration's military spending plans.

Eisenhower is disturbed that military requests have gone up around $8 billion since he left office. It's his belief that nothing has happened that is so ominous to justify such an increase.

The former president won't go into details and spell out where the $48.3 billion military budget presented by Kennedy can be cut.

And he has made no public comment beyond the speech of a week ago that took even members of his Republican party by surprise.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate GOP dinner in Washington, Eisenhower said:

"I must record my personal belief that substantial amounts in our current defense budgets reflect unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts.

"Accordingly, I personally believe—with, I am sure, very little company in either party—that the defense budget should be substantially reduced."

Although Eisenhower refuses to go beyond this public statement, it is known that he feels that international crises have unfortunately become a way of life, that there is no reason to panic when a new one arises, and that the United States should set a course and stick steadfastly to it regardless of what the Communists may do.

Military requests, Eisenhower thinks, have a habit of creeping up steadily.

Indeed, this occurred in his own administration, when the military budget rose from $35.5 billion in 1957 to $41 billion in 1961. But he thinks this increase came largely because of the switch to costly missiles while still trying to keep other defenses ship-shape.

Although Eisenhower won't go into details on where military spending could be cut—he no longer has access to the information on which the requests are based—it is known he believes the Army ground forces are too large.

He believes this is chiefly because Army leaders, jealous of other branches of the service that need and get more costly equipment, try to balance accounts by pushing for more men, instead of being happy at getting by for less.

Eisenhower doesn't see any need for Kennedy to call up the Reserves, although he thinks sending troops into Berlin may have had some morale building value in Western Germany.

Smiling U.S. Chief Hailed By 1½ Million

Greeting Is Most Tumultuous Given Foreign Visitor

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

Mexican and U.S. officials estimated a million and a half people filled the parade route as the U.S. chief executive arrived for a three-day visit to herald closer political and economic ties between the two nations. In the uproarious excitement, one enthusiastic Mexican tumbled from his perch atop a streetcar but was unhurt.

The city's streets looked as if they had been hit by a sudden blizzard of red, white, blue and green confetti and balloons as he made his entry into the capital.

In two speeches, at the airport and at a luncheon, the President referred to a common United States-Mexican heritage of revolution which he said will not be completed until the fruits of freedom and social and economic progress are extended to all.

"Arriba, Kennedy"

His reference to the United States and Mexico as "children of revolution" brought shouts and organized chants of, "Arriba, Kennedy; Arriba, Jacqueline" for the President and his wife from crowds of students at the airport. The shouts meant long live, or hooray!

The enthusiasm shown by the students, who often are the leaders in any anti-Yankee movement in Latin America, appeared significant at the outset of the visit. Nowhere was there a sign of anti-Yankeeism.

The President's linking of the spirit of revolution with his appeal for social and economic reforms seemed likely to have given his Alliance for Progress program a strong boost in this key nation.

At a luncheon given by President Adolfo Lopez Mateos at the national palace, President Kennedy again declared that Mexico and the United States have a "common heritage of revolution."

Allies By Necessity

"While geography has made us neighbors, tradition has made us friends," he said. "Economics has made us partners. And necessity has made us allies—in a vast Alianza Para el Progreso (Alliance ance of Progress). Those whom nature hath so joined together, let no man put asunder.

"As President Lopez Mateos has said, the ideals of the Mexican revolution will not be fulfilled 'while there is even one child without a school, one illiterate adult, one family without its own home, and while there is even one farm or city worker who does not receive enough salary to lead a decent life.'"

The speeches set the stage for private talks in which the two chief executives are expected to delve into Mexican-United States issues, including differences that developed early this year over how to treat Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba. At the Punta del Este conference Mexico was a holdout against complete ostracizing of Cuba from the American family of nations.

Senate OKs Compromise Export Control Act Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate quickly approved by voice vote Friday a compromise bill extending the Export Control Act for three years. The House may complete passage Saturday.

The action followed an overnight reversal by House conferees of their stand on an amendment opposed by the Kennedy administration.

The conferees originally had deadlocked and finally decided on a simple one-year extension of present law.

But the Senate refused to accept this Thursday night and instead instructed its conferees by a 44-33 vote to make another try for the Senate amendments.

The act, which contains authority for the government to ban shipments to unfriendly nations, expires Saturday midnight.

The compromise bill would provide a three-year extension. As agreed upon in Friday's conference, it also contains these amendments:

1. A declaration of policy that this country seeks to develop with its allies to the maximum extent possible a uniform trading policy with Communist nations.

2. A declaration of policy that the United States will use its economic resources and advantages in trade with Communist-dominated nations to further American security and foreign policy objectives.

3. A section contained in both original versions which would make repeated or willful violations of export controls a felony. They now are misdemeanors.

4. A requirement that an export license be denied if the president finds the article in question would contribute significantly to the military or economic potential of a Communist nation in a way which would prove detrimental to the national security and welfare of the United States.

New Successes Scored By Minuteman, Polaris

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Two of the nation's mightiest solid fueled war rockets scored solid successes Friday in a pair of key steps toward a greater and more concealed striking power for U.S. forces.

The Air Force's Minuteman "instant ICBM" was "man-rated" early Friday in its first shot by an all-military crew. The stubby, 56-foot missile passed the test with flying colors by striking a target 2,700 miles away.

About eight hours later, the Navy sent its Polaris missile blasting off into space to try out parts and equipment that will be used in a still more advanced model, coming up soon, of the submarine - launched rocket. It, too, was a clear-cut success.

The Minuteman and Polaris missiles are members of a new breed of war weapons using solid propellants so they can be hidden easily—in underground launching pits or on board submerged submarines—and fired rapidly.

The launching of the three-stage Minuteman by a "blue suit" crew consisting of 20 officers and airmen was a major milestone toward the day when similar teams will be stationed with nuclear - tipped rockets in buried firing complexes throughout the United States.

The Polaris missile launched at 9:06 a.m. EST Friday was an "A-2" model, a type already operational. But the goal Friday was to test materials and equipment for a new Polaris missile called the "A-3."

In a statement to a meeting of his 19-nation Congo Advisory Committee, Thant said he might call the U.N. Security Council into session to consider strengthening the U.N. hand in the Congo.

Four S And L Figures Named In Indictments

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Four savings and loan figures were named in 37 indictments returned Friday by a Prince Georges County grand jury.

The indictments bring to 17 the number of savings and loan principals indicted in Washington's Maryland suburban area. Thirteen persons are facing criminal charges in Montgomery County.

One of those indicted Friday was James L. Kane, Silver Spring contractor and former secretary-treasurer of the Armed Forces Savings & Loan Association.

Kane is now in federal prison serving a one-year term for mail fraud. He was charged in three indictments with embezzlement, and larceny after trust. In a fourth bill, he was accused of conspiracy to defraud depositors.

The bulk of the charges, 34 indictments, named Harold G. Applegarth, 39, Baltimore attorney who is also fighting a federal mail fraud charge.

Applegarth bought Kane's interest in the Suburban Maryland Savings & Loan Association of Suitland in 1959, according to the Maryland attorney general, and also headed the Free State Savings & Loan Association of Hillcrest Heights.

Freestate and Suburban Maryland are in receivership.

Applegarth was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, embezzlement, larceny, larceny after trust, and conspiracy.

In one of the conspiracy actions, Applegarth is named with Kane. In two others he is linked with two men, also indicted, whose names were not released.

Prince Georges states attorney William Kahler, who has presented more than 40 witnesses to the grand jury since late April, said the names of the two men, one in New York and another in Ohio, would be released after their arrest.

He described one of them as a District of Columbia broker identified with another savings and loan association now out of business, after a receivership suit for fraud against it.

The Ohio figure, said Kahler, is an official of the company which had $60,000 credited to its three accounts in three states. Kahler said the money did not exist in these accounts, and it is partly on this fact that one of the conspiracy indictments against Applegarth is based.

10 Convicts Still Up On Tower

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Ten convicts defied 86-degree temperatures Friday and remained perched atop a steel water tower 80-feet above the recreation yard of the Western Correctional Institution.

Lacking food or water since they scaled the tower, except for some candy bars, the prisoners showed no signs of relinquishing their perch, as prison authorities had predicted earlier Friday, after reviewing the weather forecast.

Nine of the inmates have been on the catwalk of the tower since Tuesday. The tenth, Richard Payne, 29, who started the demonstation against "inhuman treatment" at the state prison, has been on the tower since Monday.

Thirst, hunger and the heat drove three of the original 13 convicts off the tower during the past two days. Prison officials drained the tank when they learned the inmates were getting water from a tap on the side of the tank.

Tawes Sounds Budget Warning

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Friday that state agencies must keep their new budget requests at present levels.

He issued his warning two days before Maryland starts operating July 1 under a record budget of $555,629,000.

The state agencies will submit their new budget proposals to the Department of Budget and Procurement this fall. The department will incorporate the requests into the budget message and Tawes will submit it to the 1963 legislature.

The governor, in a letter to the agencies, also warned them not to try to disguise increased expenditures through supplementary budget requests made to the legislature.

The supplementary budget approved by the 1962 General Assembly totaled $2,411,000.

Because of the expanding population, a normal increase in the budget of $20 million could be expected for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1963.

But, said the governor, "while economic conditions at the present time, from all indications, are stable, they do not warrant any sizable increase in state governmental activities for the coming year."

Air Pollution Control Measure Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — A proposed law to control air pollution and provide fines up to $200 a day for violations was submitted Friday to the Maryland Board of Health and Mental Hygiene.

The measure was prepared by Robert M. Brown, chief of the Health Department's Bureau of Environmental Hygiene. He told the board control of air pollution now is limited to obsolete nuisance statutes.

The entire enforcement effort, Brown said, "has left a lot to be desired."

If approved by the board, the measure will be submitted to the 1963 General Assembly. It would give health officials their first effective weapon for controlling air quality in Maryland.

It would authorize the board to levy fines of $500 for air pollution, with penalties of up to $200 a day for continued violations.

Md. Employment Hits Record High For May

BALTIMORE (AP) — The total number of persons employed throughout Maryland reached a record high for the month of May.

The Department of Employment Security said Friday that 1,088,000 state residents are actively employed with only 53,500 of the potential working force still without jobs.

Stephen C. Cromwell, executive director of the department, said the employment increase has resulted in the Baltimore area being reclassified from one of substantial unemployment to one of moderate unemployment.

4 Billion Dollar Deficit Is Seen For Fiscal 1963

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government will embark Sunday on a new fiscal year that seems certain to produce a budget deficit of at least $4 billion. President Kennedy had hoped, six months ago, to show a surplus of $500 million.

Midnight Saturday marks the transition from one bookkeeping year to the next, and from one deficit to another. For the 1962 fiscal year which is ending, the deficit is forecast officially at $7 billion—the second largest in peacetime history.

Administration officials see no possibility now of returning to a balanced budget in the coming year. And some welcome another deficit as a means of pumping extra life into an economic advance that has fallen short of their goals.

When Kennedy sent Congress the fiscal 1963 budget last January, he forecast revenues of $93 billion, spending of $92.5 billion, and a surplus of $500 million.

Since then the economy has lagged behind Kennedy's forecasts, Congress has amended or scrapped a number of presidential proposals, and the Treasury has made plans for a variety of tax cuts—all working to transform the predicted surplus into another substantial deficit.

Future developments in and out of Congress could of course materially change the present budget outlook. However, it seems quite likely that revenues in fiscal 1963 will fall about $5 billion short of January estimates.

Even if spending were held to the predicted level, this would then be the picture: Revenues $88 billion, spending $92.5 billion, deficit $4.5 billion.

New Steel Labor Contracts Take Effect Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—New steel labor contracts go into effect Sunday with new job and income protection features sure to be welcomed by industry workers worried about their jobs and slackened mill activity.

Both production and employment have skidded in the three months since the new industry labor pacts were bargained in late March. Thousands of additional workers have been laid off by the steel firms and many others are employed less than full time.

Beginning Sunday, under terms of the new steel agreements, the steel companies will nearly double the money they put up for supplemental unemployment benefits. They supplement state jobless payments.

Employer contributions go up from 5 cents an hour worked by each employe to 9½ cents.

This will enable an increase of payments to a maximum $37.50 a week plus $1.50 per dependent for workers receiving state payments, and to a maximum $60 a week plus dependent allowances for workers having run out of state benefits—extending up to a full year.

Another new contract provision requires a minimum 32 hours a week pay if a worker happens to be employed less than that time.

Lawyer Suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — Vivienne Nearing, who pleaded guilty to perjury in connection with her appearance on the television quiz program "Twenty-One," was suspended Friday for six months from practicing law.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court said Mrs. Nearing, a lawyer, had committed a serious breach of ethical standards when she gave false testimony to a grand jury investigating quiz shows.

New Steel Labor Contracts Take Effect Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—New steel labor contracts go into effect Sunday with new job and income protection features sure to be welcomed by industry workers worried about their jobs and slackened mill activity.

Both production and employment have skidded in the three months since the new industry labor pacts were bargained in late March. Thousands of additional workers have been laid off by the steel firms and many others are employed less than full time.

Beginning Sunday, under terms of the new steel agreements, the steel companies will nearly double the money they put up for supplemental unemployment benefits. They supplement state jobless payments.

Employer contributions go up from 5 cents an hour worked by each employe to 9½ cents.

This will enable an increase of payments to a maximum $37.50 a week plus $1.50 per dependent for workers receiving state payments, and to a maximum $60 a week plus dependent allowances for workers having run out of state benefits—extending up to a full year.

Another new contract provision requires a minimum 32 hours a week pay if a worker happens to be employed less than that time.

LaVale Board Grants Apartment Permit

The LaVale Zoning Board yesterday authorized a building permit for detached apartment dwellings in the National Highway Addition, stating in its opinion that the board does not have the power or authority to enforce restrictive covenants in deeds to property.

The ruling was made yesterday by the board after conducting a hearing Tuesday night in the LaVale Fire Hall on the application filed by the W. Evans Buchanan Company of Rockville, Md.

The Rockville company proposed to build three detached buildings containing 16 dwelling units at 632 National Highway on a lot fronting 150 feet on the National Highway and extending southward to Braddock Avenue.

C. William Gilchrist, attorney for a group of property owners in the vicinity, said the board's decision will be appealed to Allegany County Circuit Court or an injunction sought against the builder.

At the hearing Tuesday, Gilchrist argued that when the National Highway Addition was laid out in 1915 a restriction was placed in every deed prohibiting the use of land for apartment houses.

In addition, all residences must be built 75 feet from the National Highway.

The zoning board said that according to the LaVale Zoning Ordinance there is no power or authority to enforce restrictive covenants running with land in the LaVale Zoning District.

"Indeed, the stated section (of the LaVale ordinance) specifically provides that these regulations shall apply only when the regulation imposes a greater restriction on the land than does the contract or deed. In the instant case, restrictions are greater than the (zoning) regulations," the opinion stated.

Nowhere in the legislation setting up the zoning board is the power given the body to enforce private covenants.

"In view of the fact that this has always been in the province of the law courts, this board feels it certainly would be acting beyond any possible and reasonable interpretation of the law in assuming or infering such jurisdiction when it is not specifically stated in the law."

"It is the board's opinion that it was not the legislature's intent to bestow upon the zoning board judicial authority to enforce private agreements and covenants," the ruling continued.

The board also pointed out that there is a great volume of work handled by the board, and in order to enforce private restrictions it would be necessary, before granting any zoning permit, to search the title to the property in question. This would be completely untenable from a workload viewpoint.

"The board has received the above stated application and finds that it does comply with the LaVale zoning regulations and therefore the permit is granted," the decision ended.

Reports Is Given By Sanitarian

A report of an inspection of the Allegany County Infirmary, County Home and Sylvan Retreat by the County Health Department was received yesterday by the county commissioners.

The report, compiled by William F. Williams, sanitarian, states that the sanitary condition of the kitchens in all three institutions is excellent and a number of recommendations were made.

They included placing of wood or stainless steel tops on work tables of the Infirmary kitchen, handwashing facilities in the wash room, thermometers in the freezers and coolers. A new dishwashing machine at the County Home and a hood over the kitchen range were advised.

Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon said that these recommendations have been compiled with since Williams made his inspection.

Dispute Results At Board Meet

A dispute resulted at the Allegany County Board of Commissioner's meeting yesterday over recommending a man for the position of sanitarian with the County Health Department.

Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon introduced James Stanley Ritchie to the other two board members and stated he had taken and passed an examination for the job.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said he was reiterating his stand against entering into matters of the State Health Department and over which the board has no jurisdiction.

Commissioner John T. Mason said there didn't seem to be any point in making recommendations to the state as they have been ignored in the past. He did second Shinnamon's motion to recommend Ritchie.

At this point Ritchie was asked where he resided. He said he lived on the Finzel Road. His application form listed him at an RD number, Frostburg. Commissioner Mason withdrew his second as he said that Ritchie lives in Garrett County.

Auto Rams Into Pole; Power Cut

The utility pole on the curve in the 1700-block of Frederick Street took another beating early yesterday when an auto clipped it off.

Power was cut off to a number of residences in the Frederick-Bedford Street section from 12:28 a. m. until 3:15 a. m.

For a time, hot lines were lying in the street until the Potomac Edison Company trouble-shooting crew arrived. Traffic had to be re-routed over Bedford Street.

Police Chief B. F. Gaffney said the auto was operated by David E. Thorine of Hyndman.

Thorine told the officers at the scene of the accident that a car following tried to pass him and in doing so flipped Thorine's machine into the guard rail in front of 1732 Frederick Street.

After bouncing off the guard rail, the Thorine car continued on to hit the pole.

His 1959 model auto was badly damaged.

There have been numerous wrecks at this curve, with one of them occurring just two weeks ago when a driver rolled his late-model car over.

Parents Get Report On Seattle Trip

Three station wagon loads of hale and hearty modern-day adventurers are winding their way to the World's Fair in Seattle, Wash., today — five days away from Cumberland and an inauspicious beginning of a 7,500-mile roundtrip.

"We are still in good spirits," wrote back young Betsy Ebert, a member of the predominantly student caravan.

And just about the time Betsy's letter was being winged back to Cumberland, so were bundles of clothing that so carefully were packed away in suit cases by concerned mothers the night before departure.

"Mothers," wrote Miss Ebert, "all those extra clothes you urged us to take are on their way back! Thus far, our biggest problem is excess baggage."

The young correspondent penned this message Tuesday, and her letter was mailed Wednesday afternoon from Belvidere, Ill.

Miss Ebert said the group had high hopes of its three-vehicle caravan pulling into Chicago by Monday night, but "by noon, however, we had proceeded no farther than the Howard Johnson Parking lot just outside of Somerset.

"One of the wagons was halted due to a broken fan belt."

Betsy said that, aside from one driver getting lost momentarily beyond Frostburg on the trip's first day, that keeping on the right road is no problem.

One of the drivers became confused at the intersection of Routes 40 and 219, at the point where the two routes continue as one highway.

Monday at noon "found us eating our way along the turnpike. We arrived in Chicago tired but still in good spirits around 12:30 a. m. Tuesday. We were thankful we didn't have to pitch camp. We staggered into the YMCA where we spent the night.

"The next morning we were up bright and early. Before 1 p. m. (Tuesday) we had taken in the Museum of Natural History and the Aquarium. Before we left, all those with an abundance of baggage doubled up in a suit case with someone else because the wagons were overloaded."

On the remainder of trip westward, the group will tour sites of natural and historic interest before arriving in Seattle.

Board Receives Road Mower Bids

Four bids were received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on a new roadside mower for the County Roads Department.

Apparent low bidder was Helmer and Hedrick, McMullen Highway, who offered to provide the equipment for a net cost of $2,567.68 after an allowance for a trade in on an old mower. Other bidders were Kight Garage, Baltimore Pike, $3,148.76 net; Collins GMC Garage, Baltimore Pike, $2,608.27 and Rish Equipment Company, LaVale, $2,929.50.

The bids were referred to Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, and Melvin Robinette, master mechanic for the department, for tabulation and checking of the specifications.

Secrets Of Charm

Practice Breathing According To "The Book"

In your house right now is a book that can help teach you breath control for a better speaking voice. Title? Any title will do; in fact, any book at all will do, just so it's not too heavy, not too light — but just right for balancing on your tummy as you lie flat in a relaxed manner.

Watching the rise and fall of the book as you inhale and exhale quietly and naturally tells you exactly where breathing action should be taking place — from the diaphragm in the central part of the body, just below the rib-arch.

You don't breathe with the shoulders, or the throat, or with the chest and get the full measure of air that supports vocal tone. And unless you exercise that diaphragm until proper breathing becomes an effortless habit, you cannot hope to achieve consistency of control. Improving the sound of your voice can come only after you have mastered breath control.

"Wear" the book to bed for several nights in a row, so that you can spend a few minutes before shut-eye time in making yourself aware of the work your diaphragm performs and in getting accustomed to deep breathing without gulping and without conscious movement of the upper body.

For the second stage in this breathing course, stand with your back against a wall and press the book against your stomach for more diaphragmatic exercise in a normal upright position. You must be able to feel your diaphragm "push away" the book at a slow and even tempo.

After a few sessions like this, put away the book and step away from the wall. Now, you're on your own. Put your hands in place of the book to keep track of expansion and contraction. By this time, your breathing should be regular and full-powered — with all the involved mechanics concentrated in that rib-cage area. There should be no shallow, jerky rasps, no convulsive shuddering of the shoulders nor heaving of the chest.

At this point, you are ready to try holding each breath for a longer interval and to perfect your ability to exhale gradually (and silently) merely by relaxing to permit the escape of air. By counting aloud (at least five numbers per breath), you are preparing yourself for that all-important third stage—directing that strong column of air into producing a more pleasing sound.

More hints on enhancing the quality of your voice and on building up its volume are incorporated in my special booklet, "Your Most Attractive Voice." To get a copy, just write to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Steady there, Girl. Don't let the ornery critters throw ya'. Remember the senior citizen who accused you of not liking old people? She said she was over 70 and just loved living with her son and daughter-in-law. Well, that's ducky — but the central point is do THEY just love having HER?

I never cease to be amazed at all the fanfare in the newspapers when a parent lives to celebrate a 100th birthday. The President of the United States sends a telegram, the governor sends greetings, and there's usually a five-layer cake. And then, the last line of the newspaper report goes something like this: "Mrs. Hawmintosh has made her home with her daughter-in-law for the last 40 years."

I say the President should send the telegram to the daughter-in-law — especially if those last 40 years have been happy ones for the lady who has reached 100. — ADDED WORD

DEAR ADDED WORD: And now may I add a word? AMEN!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 17, mixed up, in love and desperate. The fellow is 18, handsome, swell built, plays the guitar and has the dreamiest eyes I've ever seen.

I need an honest answer so I'll give you the straight facts. I lost my head over this guy completely and now there's no turning back. He never takes me out on a real date, like to a movie or a dance or party. He is interested in only one thing.

Please don't lecture me. I'm a girl who listens to her heart instead of her head. If you could see him you'd understand. He's a combination of Sal Mineo and Cary Grant and he talks like Adlai Stevenson. Please don't tell me to stop seeing him. It's impossible. — SANDBAGGED

DEAR SANDBAGGED: I have no advice for a girl who says she listens to her heart instead of her head. The only approach to problems I know is through the head.

I can only tell you how these affairs usually wind up. The fellow will drop you when he gets bored and you have nothing more to give. You'll be ashamed and heartbroken. If you think you're Sandbagged now, Sister — just wait.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married at 18. We had three children in five years. It seems I was always pregnant, or suffering from nervous exhaustion.

When the children were a little older I began to pay more attention to my husband but by that time it was too late.

Five months ago he told me he was in love with another woman and he wanted time to "think things over." I told him to think things over some place else. I let him know he could come see the children whenever he wished. He packed his clothes and moved to a hotel.

Six weeks later he started to come to the house every night. He's been wonderful to the children and very sweet to me. I know he'd like to come back home but he's ashamed to ask. It's apparent he's had enough of the other woman because he's with us every night.

I love him dearly and want him back, but I have pride, too. What shall I do? — TONGUE-TIED

DEAR WOMAN: Untie your tongue, and in plain language ask him to come home for good.

Your husband's nightly presence is solid testimony to his feelings. Three children are involved and it would be tragic if you allowed silly pride to stand in the way of rebuilding your marriage.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

put it over the plate

You are witnessing one of the frustrations in Ted's life. Like his namesake, the Red Sox slugger, Ted likes to tag a good fast ball and send it over the fence. But, today, our batting-practice pitcher just can't seem to find the plate.

Another frustration in Ted's life will occur next Sunday morning. Like every American youngster Ted needs religious training. But Ted's parents, who should be offering him opportunity and encouragement in spiritual growth, can't seem to find the Church.

Our children deserve the full spiritual opportunity which our free heritage has preserved for them. Today it is their turn to develop the power with which God endowed them. And our assignment, like the batting-practice pitcher's, is to offer them our best . . . and not lost control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

You are witnessing one of the frustrations in Ted's life. Like his namesake, the Red Sox slugger, Ted likes to tag a good fast ball and send it over the fence. But, today, our batting-practice pitcher just can't seem to find the plate.

Another frustration in Ted's life will occur next Sunday morning. Like every American youngster Ted needs religious training. But Ted's parents, who should be offering him opportunity and encouragement in spiritual growth, can't seem to find the Church.

Our children deserve the full spiritual opportunity which our free heritage has preserved for them. Today it is their turn to develop the power with which God endowed them. And our assignment, like the batting-practice pitcher's, is to offer them our best . . . and not lost control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Royal Engineers Look For Mother Of Recruit

COVE, England (UPI) — The Royal Engineers Regiment is looking for a mother.

Maj. Edward Smeeden said they want a mother of a recruit to spend the first week doing the same things as her son so she "could tell other parents about her experiences."

RS Dividends Still Available To Korea Vets

There is $23,000,000 still available to pay dividends to some 210,000 Korea veterans who hold RS term insurance policies, according to F. E. Quinn, Baltimore regional office manager of Veterans Administration.

This special dividend is available only to those veterans who still hold policies with the prefix RS in front of their policy number.

Public Law 87-223, approved September 13, 1961, provided for payment of a special dividend for RS and W insurance under certain conditions. RS insurance which had been converted or exchanged to W insurance automatically qualified the policyholder for payment of the special dividend. Under the law, the RS insurance must be converted or exchanged for W insurance on or before September 13, 1963, to qualify for this dividend payment.

Therefore, the present RS policy holder must by that date take one of two actions or forfeit his right to the dividend. He may either exchange his RS term insurance policy for a W term policy that will generally cost him only one-third of what he is now paying and cannot be renewed as term insurance after age 50 but can be converted to a low cost permanent plan insurance at any time; or he may convert his policy to a low cost permanent plan now.

RS insurance is by law non-participating (no dividends are paid), therefore, the premiums charged resulted in an accumulated surplus that could not be refunded until Congress approved legislation permitting the payment of the special dividend. The premium rate structure for W insurance is based on a more current mortality experience table and in view of the reduced premium costs a future surplus is not anticipated.

If the RS policyholder takes either of the above actions on or before September 13, 1963, he will receive his special dividend which will average about $100, depending upon the age of the insured and the length of time the policy has been in force.

Although all policyholders have recevied detailed information about this dividend from the VA, Mr. Quinn urged them to carefully consider the advantages of exchanging or converting their policies prior to September 13, 1963.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shey, 802 Shriver Avenue, have returned from a Florida vacation.

Hardesty Backs Majority Report On Colleges

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, yesterday announced his support of the majority report of the Curlett Commission on higher education, issued last week.

Mr. Hardesty's statement follows:

"I am endorsing the majority report of the Curlett Commission issued last week.

"This Commission recommends a nine-man board to be appointed by the governor to govern the colleges at Frostburg, Towson, Salisbury, Morgan, Coppin, and Bowie.

"The Commission further recommends that these colleges be converted into state colleges, removing the word 'teachers.' This will enhance the liberal arts program already advanced at Frostburg. Such a move will also favor the progress of graduate work leading to a master of science degree, especially for industry, master of arts degree, and master of education degree. The Curlett Commission in no way deters Frostburg from developing into a university in the years ahead. The Curlett Commission report is not in any aspect in opposition to the report issued by President R. Bowen Hardesty on May 1, 1962. One complements the other.

"Unrelated to Frostburg, the Curlett Commission recommends that the Board of Regents continue to govern the University of Maryland. This commission further recommends that the State Board of Education limit its legal responsibilities to the two - year junior (community) colleges, to public schools, to vocational rehabilitation, and to libraries.

"In addition, the commission recommends a voluntary coordinating board with representation from the new Board for State Colleges, from the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, and from the State Board of Education. This Advisory Council would serve the state as an over-all planning and advisory council for public higher education. It would be, the Commission stated, 'an agency to which the Legislature, Governor and the people of Maryland can look for authoritative guidance on the needs of public higher education in the state.'

"It seems to me that Maryland is moving in the right direction to solve the problem of higher education where enrollments are fast doubling. President Hardesty also concurs with the Curlett Commission that to solve this problem will require a vast outlay of capital as it did for elementary and high school buildings a few years ago. Now these same great numbers of young people are reaching college age. Today, over 300 are placed in rooms in Frostburg and another 100 rooms are badly needed but unavailable.

"The need for a plan of action today is urgent,' the Curlett Commission stated in its report. The report points out that by 1975 more than 23,000 students, over 43% of all Maryland high school graduates, will be applying for admission to institutions of higher education each year."

June Marriage Licenses Tie Last Year's Pace

Some 273 marriage licenses have been issued during June, tying the month ending today with the corresponding month a year ago.

June, the traditional month for marriages, provided the heaviest marriage license activity so far this year. After six months, some 1,162 marriage licenses have been issued in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. That is 6.6 more than the 1,090 obtained in the first half of 1961. Only in April was this year behind the pace of a year ago.

Monthly totals, with 1961 listed first in each case:

January — 150 and 164; February — 141 and 163; March — 158 and 176; April — 168 and 166; May — 200 and 220 and June — 273 and 273.

Haddon Avenue Water Line Laid

The Water Department has run a line to serve five new homes which have been built on Haddon Avenue, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

He said a six-inch line was run from Avondale Avenue — large enough to serve the area, which is expected to expand in the near future.

Equity Suits Filed

Four new equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled John Calvin Vanetta vs. Peggy Ruth Vanetta, a minor; Rodney Wayne Propst vs. Rita Propst, Howard Lewis Deneen vs. Ruth Emily Deneen and Lottie Loar vs. S. McKee Loar.

County To Invest At Second National

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved the investment of a large amount of county tax funds in certificates of deposit in the Second National Bank.

Commissioner John T. Mason, who has charge of the investment program, said that $800,000 will be deposited with $500,000 from July 1 to February 1, 1963. $300,000 will be deposited July 1 and be earning interest until April 1, 1963. The interest rate will be three and one-half per cent for all monies on deposit for at least six months.

The county is also placing $400,000 in U. S. Treasury bills July 1 and they will be held until December 1. The interest on these Treasury bills is expected to be about 2.76 per cent.

Prior to the investing of the funds, Commissioner John J. Rowan asked to see the proposals of other banks, which offered three per cent. After checking them over he seconded Mason's motion to invest the funds. Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon made the motion unanimous.

U.S. Advising Viet Nam Not To Abuse POWs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. military advisers to South Viet Nam's troops are reported under orders now to advise them against rough treatment of Communist Viet Cong prisoners.

The jungle war has been harsh on both sides.

American officers told a reporter Friday they have been directed to report any summary executions they have witnessed and to try to persuade the South Vietnamese armed forces to treat prisoners more humanely.

One said he is worried about the instructions, commenting that the Vietnamese officers he advises have made clear they consider the handling of prisoners their problem alone. He said he feared impairment of his working relationship with the Vietnamese.

Another officer said he understood each U.S. field adviser received a questionnaire which stated in its preface that the United States cannot get involved in any brutal treatment of prisoners.

He said he understood this was a direct result of concern by President Kennedy over reports that the South Vietnamese had executed some Communist guerrilla prisoners during combat operations and treated others harshly during interrogations.

A spokesman for the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group command in Saigon who was asked about this declined curtly to comment. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said such a questionnaire would be strictly a military matter, but that he knew the field advisers had been asked about the situation.

Turkey Marketing Order Voted Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced Friday that producers turned down by a large margin a proposed national marketing order for turkeys in a referendum held June 18-22.

Out of a national total of 7,188 producers voting, 3,116 growers or 43.4 per cent, favored the marketing order program. Voting against the order were 4,072 producers, or 56.6 per cent.

Maryland producers voted 53-4 against the order. West Virginians favored it 47-39.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — That glamorus connoisseuress (such a word?) of art, and high fashion stylist Miss Martha Hyer, also has an eye for effective business action. So, when she signed her contract for Danny Kaye's "The Man From the Diners Club," there was no dull scene of inking the contract in a Columbia Studio office.

Martha attended to the legalities on the set surrounded by Danny Kaye, producer Bill Bloom and director Frank Tashlin, plus some publicity men and photographers, who always come in handy.

Then pretty Martha, all aglow, got on the telephone right from the set to tell the press how excited she is about "Being the Lady from the Diner's Club" with wonderful Danny. Zsa Zsa could not have done it in better champagne-for-everybody style.

Richard Chamberlain's steady girlfriend, Clara Ray, can't take it any more. Ever since it was printed that she is secretly married to Dr. Kildare, her life has been plugged into a telephone. Calls have come from Tokyo, London and West Berlin press — and that doesn't count the hundreds of women fans who want to know if Clara has walked off with their boy.

Unfortunately, her number was in the telephone book until just a few days ago. Then she asked in desperation for an unlisted number.

Both she and Dick say, "WE ARE NOT MARRIED." They'd appreciate being left in peace to make up their minds whether or not they want to be.

With John Barrymore Jr., wife, Gabriel, expecting a baby in Rome in about two months, a heretofore unknown peace has descended over their marriage. Gone are John's street scene battles—and his public brawlings with Gabriel. The Roman late spots seldom see young Barrymore these nights and dawnings. In fact, he's being very thoughtful of his eight-year-old son, John III, by a former marriage to Cara Williams. Recently sent the youngster a gold medal bearing the Barrymore crest which he had cast in Italy.

Saw Virginia Bruce at the preview of "Birdman of Alcatraz" and the story of prisoner Robert Stroud as played by Burt Lancaster must have been a painful experience for her. Her husband, Ali, Ipar, had been a political prisoner in his native Turkey for two years until his release a short time ago.

Since then he has been in Paris trying everything possible to get a visa to join his wife in this country. This is not easy in France these days. Political prisoners of ANY nationality have rocky going.

Poor Virginia can only wait, hope—and pray the red tape will be untangled.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

When Marlon Brando couldn't be located, the buzz was he'd gone to New York to file suit against a national publication. But his friend, George Englund, says, "forget it. It isn't true."

Cara Williams' mother, Flo, and baseball umpire Max Stone have a home run in mind.

Latest on "Something's Got to Give": That Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward will step into the Dean Martin-Marilyn Monroe roles.

Leland Hayward's daughter, Brookes, married to actor Dennis Hopper, welcomed a six pound girl at St. John's Hospital.

RS Dividends Still Available To Korea Vets

There is $23,000,000 still available to pay dividends to some 210,000 Korea veterans who hold RS term insurance policies, according to F. E. Quinn, Baltimore regional office manager of Veterans Administration.

This special dividend is available only to those veterans who still hold policies with the prefix RS in front of their policy number.

Public Law 87-223, approved September 13, 1961, provided for payment of a special dividend for RS and W insurance under certain conditions. RS insurance which had been converted or exchanged to W insurance automatically qualified the policyholder for payment of the special dividend. Under the law, the RS insurance must be converted or exchanged for W insurance on or before September 13, 1963, to qualify for this dividend payment.

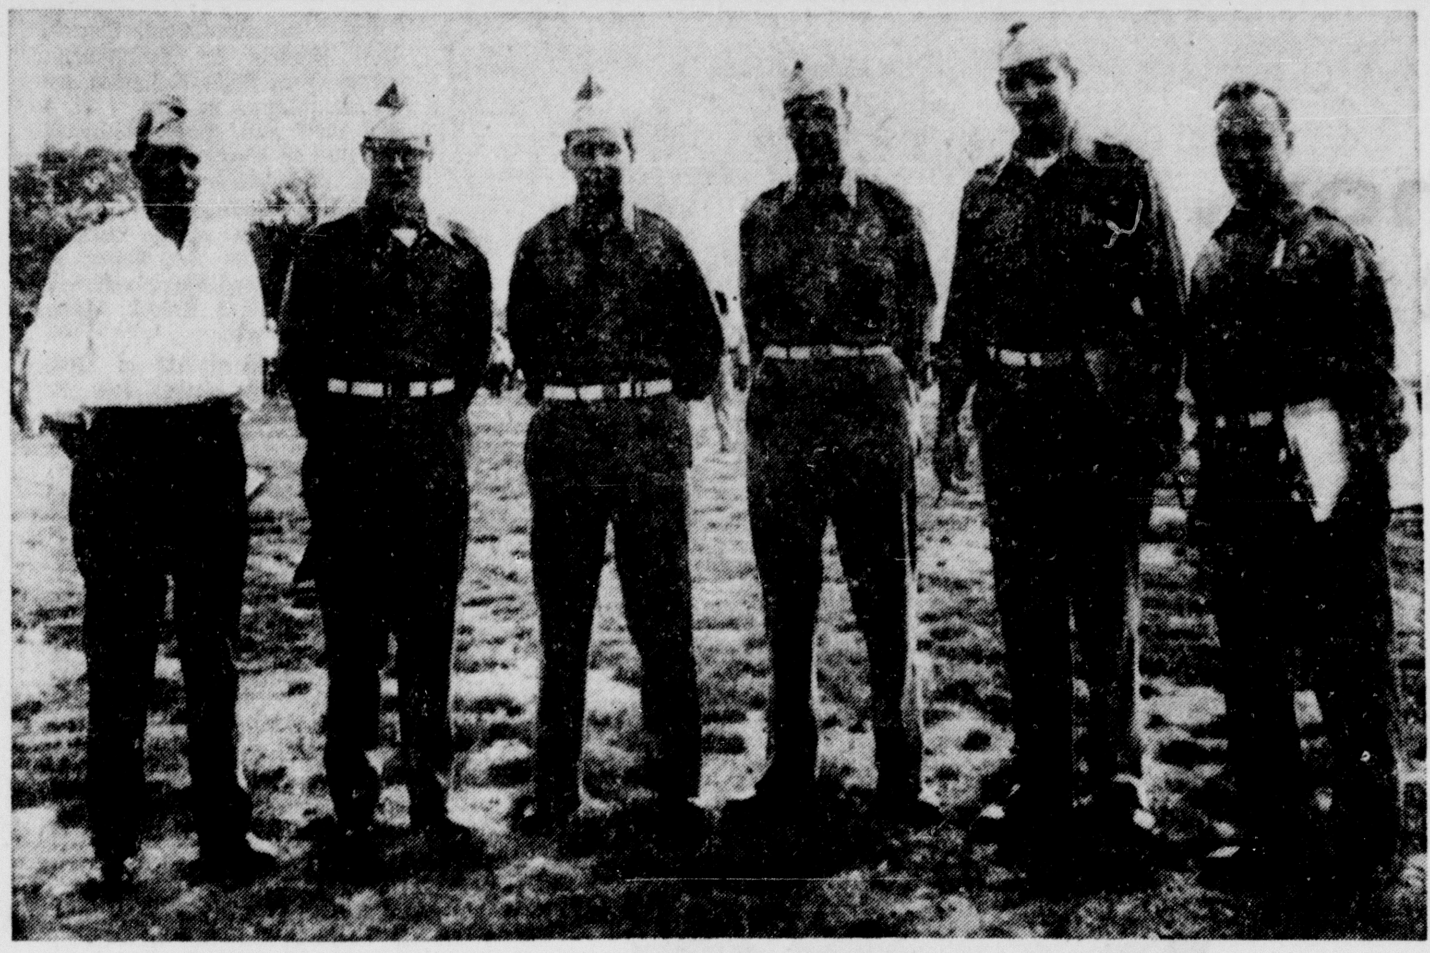
Therefore, the present RS policy holder must by that date take one of two actions or forfeit his right to the dividend. He may either exchange his RS term insurance policy for a W term policy that will generally cost him only one-third of what he is now paying and cannot be renewed as term insurance after age 50 but can be converted to a low cost permanent plan insurance at any time; or he may convert his policy to a low cost permanent plan now.

RS insurance is by law nonparticipating (no dividends are paid), therefore, the premiums charged resulted in an accumulated surplus that could not be refunded until Congress approved legislation permitting the payment of the special dividend. The premium rate structure for W insurance is based on a more current mortality experience table and in view of the reduced premium costs a future surplus is not anticipated.

If the RS policyholder takes either of the above actions on or before September 13, 1963, he will receive his special dividend which will average about $100, depending upon the age of the insured and the length of time the policy has been in force.

Although all policyholders have recevied detailed information about this dividend from the VA, Mr. Quinn urged them to carefully consider the advantages of exchanging or converting their policies prior to September 13, 1963.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shey, 802 Shriver Avenue, have returned from a Florida vacation.



Will Judge Parade At Frostburg

These six men, members of the Pennsylvania Chapter of the All-American Judges' Association, will judge the parade of the Frostburg Sesquicentennial today at 2 p. m. Pictured, left to right, are J. Hardesty Backs Majority Report On Colleges

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, yesterday announced his support of the majority report of the Curlett Commission on higher education, issued last week.

Mr. Hardesty's statement follows:

"I am endorsing the majority report of the Curlett Commission issued last week.

"This Commission recommends a nine-man board to be appointed by the governor to govern the colleges at Frostburg, Towson, Salisbury, Morgan, Coppin, and Bowie.

"The Commission further recommends that these colleges be converted into state colleges, removing the word 'teachers.' This will enhance the liberal arts program already advanced at Frostburg. Such a move will also favor the progress of graduate work leading to a master of science degree, especially for industry, master of arts degree, and master of education degree. The Curlett Commission in no way deters Frostburg from developing into a university in the years ahead. The Curlett Commission report is not in any aspect in opposition to the report issued by President R. Bowen Hardesty on May 1, 1962. One complements the other.

"Unrelated to Frostburg, the Curlett Commission recommends that the Board of Regents continue to govern the University of Maryland. This commission further recommends that the State Board of Education limit its legal responsibilities to the two - year junior (community) colleges, to public schools, to vocational rehabilitation, and to libraries.

"In addition, the commission recommends a voluntary coordinating board with representation from the new Board for State Colleges, from the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, and from the State Board of Education. This Advisory Council would serve the state as an over-all planning and advisory council for public higher education. It would be, the Commission stated, 'an agency to which the Legislature, Governor and the people of Maryland can look for authoritative guidance on the needs of public higher education in the state.'

"It seems to me that Maryland is moving in the right direction to solve the problem of higher education where enrollments are fast doubling. President Hardesty also concurs with the Curlett Commission that to solve this problem will require a vast outlay of capital as it did for elementary and high school buildings a few years ago. Now these same great numbers of young people are reaching college age. Today, over 300 are placed in rooms in Frostburg and another 100 rooms are badly needed but unavailable.

"The need for a plan of action today is urgent,' the Curlett Commission stated in its report. The report points out that by 1975 more than 23,000 students, over 43% of all Maryland high school graduates, will be applying for admission to institutions of higher education each year."

June Marriage Licenses Tie Last Year's Pace

Some 273 marriage licenses have been issued during June, tying the month ending today with the corresponding month a year ago.

June, the traditional month for marriages, provided the heaviest marriage license activity so far this year. After six months, some 1,162 marriage licenses have been issued in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. That is 6.6 more than the 1,090 obtained in the first half of 1961. Only in April was this year behind the pace of a year ago.

Monthly totals, with 1961 listed first in each case:

January — 150 and 164; February — 141 and 163; March — 158 and 176; April — 168 and 166; May — 200 and 220 and June — 273 and 273.

Haddon Avenue Water Line Laid

The Water Department has run a line to serve five new homes which have been built on Haddon Avenue, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

He said a six-inch line was run from Avondale Avenue — large enough to serve the area, which is expected to expand in the near future.

Equity Suits Filed

Four new equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled John Calvin Vanetta vs. Peggy Ruth Vanetta, a minor; Rodney Wayne Propst vs. Rita Propst, Howard Lewis Deneen vs. Ruth Emily Deneen and Lottie Loar vs. S. McKee Loar.

County To Invest At Second National

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved the investment of a large amount of county tax funds in certificates of deposit in the Second National Bank.

Commissioner John T. Mason, who has charge of the investment program, said that $800,000 will be deposited with $500,000 from July 1 to February 1, 1963. $300,000 will be deposited July 1 and be earning interest until April 1, 1963. The interest rate will be three and one-half per cent for all monies on deposit for at least six months.

The county is also placing $400,000 in U. S. Treasury bills July 1 and they will be held until December 1. The interest on these Treasury bills is expected to be about 2.76 per cent.

Prior to the investing of the funds, Commissioner John J. Rowan asked to see the proposals of other banks, which offered three per cent. After checking them over he seconded Mason's motion to invest the funds. Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon made the motion unanimous.

U.S. Advising Viet Nam Not To Abuse POWs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. military advisers to South Viet Nam's troops are reported under orders now to advise them against rough treatment of Communist Viet Cong prisoners.

The jungle war has been harsh on both sides.

American officers told a reporter Friday they have been directed to report any summary executions they have witnessed and to try to persuade the South Vietnamese armed forces to treat prisoners more humanely.

One said he is worried about the instructions, commenting that the Vietnamese officers he advises have made clear they consider the handling of prisoners their problem alone. He said he feared impairment of his working relationship with the Vietnamese.

Another officer said he understood each U.S. field adviser received a questionnaire which stated in its preface that the United States cannot get involved in any brutal treatment of prisoners.

He said he understood this was a direct result of concern by President Kennedy over reports that the South Vietnamese had executed some Communist guerrilla prisoners during combat operations and treated others harshly during interrogations.

A spokesman for the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group command in Saigon who was asked about this declined curtly to comment. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said such a questionnaire would be strictly a military matter, but that he knew the field advisers had been asked about the situation.

Turkey Marketing Order Voted Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced Friday that producers turned down by a large margin a proposed national marketing order for turkeys in a referendum held June 18-22.

Out of a national total of 7,188 producers voting, 3,116 growers or 43.4 per cent, favored the marketing order program. Voting against the order were 4,072 producers, or 56.6 per cent.

Maryland producers voted 53-4 against the order. West Virginians favored it 47-39.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — That glamorus connoisseuress (such a word?) of art, and high fashion stylist Miss Martha Hyer, also has an eye for effective business action. So, when she signed her contract for Danny Kaye's "The Man From the Diners Club," there was no dull scene of inking the contract in a Columbia Studio office.

Martha attended to the legalities on the set surrounded by Danny Kaye, producer Bill Bloom and director Frank Tashlin, plus some publicity men and photographers, who always come in handy.

Then pretty Martha, all aglow, got on the telephone right from the set to tell the press how excited she is about "Being the Lady from the Diner's Club" with wonderful Danny. Zsa Zsa could not have done it in better champagne-for-everybody style.

Richard Chamberlain's steady girlfriend, Clara Ray, can't take it any more. Ever since it was printed that she is secretly married to Dr. Kildare, her life has been plugged into a telephone. Calls have come from Tokyo, London and West Berlin press — and that doesn't count the hundreds of women fans who want to know if Clara has walked off with their boy.

Unfortunately, her number was in the telephone book until just a few days ago. Then she asked in desperation for an unlisted number.

Both she and Dick say, "WE ARE NOT MARRIED." They'd appreciate being left in peace to make up their minds whether or not they want to be.

With John Barrymore Jr., wife, Gabriel, expecting a baby in Rome in about two months, a heretofore unknown peace has descended over their marriage. Gone are John's street scene battles—and his public brawlings with Gabriel. The Roman late spots seldom see young Barrymore these nights and dawnings. In fact, he's being very thoughtful of his eight-year-old son, John III, by a former marriage to Cara Williams. Recently sent the youngster a gold medal bearing the Barrymore crest which he had cast in Italy.

Saw Virginia Bruce at the preview of "Birdman of Alcatraz" and the story of prisoner Robert Stroud as played by Burt Lancaster must have been a painful experience for her. Her husband, Ali, Ipar, had been a political prisoner in his native Turkey for two years until his release a short time ago.

Since then he has been in Paris trying everything possible to get a visa to join his wife in this country. This is not easy in France these days. Political prisoners of ANY nationality have rocky going.

Poor Virginia can only wait, hope—and pray the red tape will be untangled.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random;

When Marlon Brando couldn't be located, the buzz was he'd gone to New York to file suit against a national publication. But his friend, George Englund, says, "forget it. It isn't true."

Cara Williams' mother, Flo, and baseball umpire Max Stone have a home run in mind.

Latest on "Something's Got to Give": That Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward will step into the Dean Martin-Marilyn Monroe roles.

Leland Hayward's daughter, Brookes, married to actor Dennis Hopper, welcomed a six pound girl at St. John's Hospital.

Curbing A Job Racket

A new law goes into effect in New York state on Sunday that requires employment agencies to tell applicants before promising them jobs what their duties and wages will be, and the total amount of agency fees. The law also prohibits agencies from holding luggage or other personal property of applicants in lieu of fee payment.

The measure is aimed at a growing job racket in the suburbs of New York City. Thousands of Southern young women, about 95 per cent of them Negro, are being "lured" to Manhattan with extravagant promises. When they arrive, they are pressured to take jobs as domestics with long hours and low pay. Some 10,000 girls have been recruited in the South in the past 10 years to fill a demand for maids in Westchester and Nassau counties, according to Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, chairman of the Community Service Committee of the Urban League of Greater New York.

Neither the League nor the city is satisfied with the new law. The city wanted a provision that would have required agencies to furnish food and lodging for recruited girls until jobs were found for them. The League's recommendations were drawn up at a meeting of representatives of government, welfare, and private employment agencies.

The hardship for some of the girls is difficult to correct, for many cannot write their own names or the names of their home states. Negroes make up about 10 per cent of the national population, but Negro women make up half of all domestic servants in private homes and fill one-fifth of other types of service jobs.

These Days

On Answering Letters

It seems that persons regard it as obligatory that when they write letters, one should immediately drop everything and reply. Bill Buckley, a good fellow, wrote to me, asking why I have no enthusiasm for Dr. Fred Schwarz. When I got around to it, I replied as I chose, still being a free person. Bill, however, got all excited and wrote a piece on my wickedness in not replying to him.

Now, it seems that my good friend, Gene Lyons, wrote to me about Schwarz and he also wrote to Arnold Forster of the Anti-Defamation League. I have not replied to this letter of Gene's. I often reply to letters by calling the person on the telephone. It is a habit. According to the "National Review," Forster also has not replied to Gene. I do not know anything about Forster's letter habits. Maybe he replies rapidly or in due course. Maybe he regards the Schwarz matter as too insignificant.

According to the "National Review": "In its June 5 and June 19 issues, National Review commented on the attempt to smear Dr. Fred Schwarz in conjunction with his first public activities in New York City, and on the role which Arnold Forster and the Anti-Defamation League have played in that defamatory operation."

If Dr. Schwarz was, as Bill Buckley says, "smeared," it would be interesting to see some evidence of that. For instance, I believe that an alien should mind his own business about the United States. I have for decades objected to and resisted Russian interference in American affairs. I have written about British and German interference in our affairs.

Dr. Schwarz is an Australian. He is not an American citizen. Therefore, before I can pay the slightest heed to his discussion of an American problem, I want to know why, if he lives here, earns his living here, works here, and only visits Australia occasionally, he does not become an American citizen.

When Dr. Schwarz came to New York, he advertised his operation as "The Christian Anti-Communism Crusade." No one can object to that. Surely many are Christians and it is a worthy cause to be an anti-Communist. But why remain an Australian and work in the United States and raise money in the United States and not become an American citizen?

Furthermore, why drop the name "Christian Anti-Communism Crusade" in New York? That is a good name, why not use it? Perhaps it was suggested that in New York, one must be more interdenominational. Well, that is not a bad argument. And yet, if one wants to be denominational, why not? To abolish denominations opportunistically is like the Supreme Court's attempt to abolish God.

Gene Lyons, who is a Senior Editor of the Reader's Digest and a truly well-informed person on Communism and Russia, said in his letter to Arnold Forster, "I have found nothing that would even remotely justify the implications of the 'thumbs down' by the ADL. I can only suppose, therefore, that you know something about him that nobody else seems to know. I do believe, both as a Jew and as a journalist, that you ought to share the information with me."

In an interview with a radio commentator Dr. Schwarz said: "Well, this (The Greater New York School of Anti-Communism) is not a function of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade; but they won't let me get away from it. They — this is — a non-political, non-sectarian, anti-Communism rally: and we're anxious and eager to have full cooperation of everyone on a basis of complete equality in this. We believe in cooperation and competition. And this is the area of complete cooperation."

Now, it would seem that in sponsoring his meeting at Madison Square Garden on June 28, Schwarz claimed exemption for admission tax on tickets on the grounds that the School was an activity of the Crusade. The tax exemption was granted. But for the same statement, he made contradictory claims as indicated above. This I do not understand. Perhaps Lyons or Schwarz can explain that.

In 1961, the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade had an income of $1,273,492.39, which is considerable money. No taxes are paid on this because Schwarz's work is supposed to be educational and religious and therefore tax exempt.

What bothers me is that Schwarz is not an American citizen—or was not when I last inquired.

President Wants To Take Case To The Country

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy and his staff are now thinking seriously about taking the Administration's case to the country before this year's Congressional election. Speaking trips and spot speeches are under consideration for both September and October.

With great reluctance, and with little visible effect, President Eisenhower also entered the fray in the off-year elections while he was in the White House. But the interventions President Kennedy is planning will be very different from the Eisenhower interventions, which were always momentary, grandiose, and bland. To the extent the other demands of his office permit, Kennedy wants to take the stump in earnest, in the old-fashioned American way.

Within the White House staff, in fact, something of an argument is already going on about where the President ought to concentrate his efforts.

Many smaller states have Senate seats and Governorships at stake, and one group would like these states to be covered. The other group is arguing for intense concentration on the big states like California, New York, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois, where the voting trend will have more influence on the future composition of the House of Representatives. The President apparently leans to the latter view.

Going to the country in an off-year, as the President is now thinking of doing, is a very risky course of action. By getting into the campaign with both feet, instead of helicoptering in and helicoptering out in the Eisenhower manner, a President automatically engages his personal prestige in local races, in which his name is not on the ballot. Thus he loses doubly if his party loses.

This time-honored argument for Presidential quiescence in off-years is still to be heard in the Kennedy White House. But there is much more force and conviction in the counter-argument, that taking the risk this year is one of those things the President "can't not do."

He "can't not do it," according to this line of argment, because history is now moving so fast, both in this country and the world, that the old American political rules are partly outmoded. Under the old rules, Kennedy would now stay above the contest. He would accept a Democratic set-back if that was the election result. He would then play politics against the new Congress for two years, in the hope of making a spectacular comeback in 1964.

But as the President himself has reportedly confided to those around him, it is "too dangerous" nowadays to waste two crucial years on political bickering between the White House and the Capitol. That means, in turn, that the President desperately needs a new Congress which will be more amenable and responsive than the present one.

Yet the old rules also say that the party in power always loses seats in an off-year. If the President takes the stump, in sum, he will be breaking the old rules about Presidential political behavior, in the hope of breaking the old rules about off-year election results.

At the moment, the general political atmosphere in Washington can only be described as rancid; but the rancidity and discouragement have not as yet infected the White House. The White House view is that the Republicans in Congress are paving the way for an unprecedentedly good Democratic showing next November, by their fairly persistent partisanship and negativism.

"They're getting the image of a know-nothing, do-nothing, see-nothing, go nowhere party, and it's bound to do them harm," according to one of the President's chief political advisers. Contrary to a recent report, moreover, the White House has most emphatically not been depressed by recent public opinion soundings by pollers.

The Louis Harris poll, for instance, which is supposed to have brought Kennedy bad news, has in fact discovered overwhelming public support for the President's action to hold the price line in steel, in tests taken both before and after the stock market decline. The same poll also found very recently that the President would carry New York state against Gov. Nelson Rockefeller by a whopping 2-to-1 majority if and election were held tomorrow.

For many other reasons besides the reports of the pollers, the White House in fact believes that the President has not yet lost support in the country, except in the business community, "which always votes Republican anyway." As yet in truth, there is only one possible development that alarms the White House.

If times are bad and jobs are scarce, it is admitted that the election can turn into a near-disaster.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

COMPUTER — The computer age is at hand! Even the Department of State has figured out a way to use these complex electronic gadgets. And prospects are bright for their use as a tool of diplomacy.

The department's Foreign Service has a group feeding information into one of the modern marvels dealing with all economic, political, geographic, historic and social facts it knows about foreign nations.

Right now, the work is limited to utilizing the machine's "memory" to extract quickly pertinent information that already has been programmed into the device. The idea is that the machine will spew out in concise, collected form all the information on any specific phase of an international problem that the Foreign Service wants to analyze. Foreign Service officers do the actual analyzing —not the machines.

The department has high hopes that its "monster" will eventually be able to help in arriving at correct solutions to difficult and complex international problems. With all information stored within it, the day may come—and fairly soon — when the machine will be able to evaluate alternative solutions to problems of diplomacy and indicate which is the best one and the prospects for its achievement.

There's no fear of technological unemployment among Foreign Service officers, however. Most of them doubt that the machine will ever be able to replace officers who arrive at conclusions from myriad facts and those on-the-spot observations that no mere machine could hope to duplicate.

Besides, it's pretty difficult to deck the machine out in striped pants — a prerequisite for success in a diplomatic career!

JFK Can Get Some Lessons About Alliance For Progress In Mexico

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In Mexico, President Kennedy can get some pointers on the Alliance for Progress from a government which began its own program for progress long ahead of any other American nation and put it across despite the bitter, sometimes belligerent, opposition of U.S. oil companies, U. S. cattle ranchers, and the U. S. State Department.

The Mexican program for progress, or "revolution" as it is generally called, began in 1910, seven years before the Russian revolution of 1917 and illustrates that the Communist drift in some parts of Latin America is not imported, but a home-grown product native to the Americas.

This is the kind of Communism which Kennedy and the United States have to worry about in various parts of Latin America.

Despite this revolutionary background, and despite many years of "yanqui" opposition, Mexico has now developed its own unique mixture or capitalism and socialism.

Though a social democracy, it is one of the few countries in the world where foreign capital can not only be invested, but withdrawn — without restriction — except in the petroleum, transportation, and soft-drink industries.

As a result, Woolworth has set up thriving five-and-ten-cent stores in Mexico; Sears, Roebuck conducts the top retail establishment in Mexico City; and of the approximate two billion dollars invested in Mexico, more than 75 per cent of it comes from the United States. This has helped make Mexico City the biggest in all Latin America — bigger than Buenos Aires or Rio de Janeiro, and about tied with Chicago as the second biggest city in the western hemisphere.

Foundation Of Democracy

One foundation stone of the Alliance for Progress is land reform. President Kennedy has urged Latin leaders to divide up the vast estates held by the Spanish aristocracy and create a small-farmer democracy.

Last winter I traveled with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos through the state of Chihuahua in Northern Mexico as he carried out Mexico's well-established land reform law.

At Guerrero, a dusty, rain-thirsty city south of Arizona, I watched the President hand out certificates of land ownership to a line of gnarled and weatherbeaten Mexican farmers. It was the biggest moment of their lives, as they reached out to receive their certificates, and shake hands with the President.

Some shook hands with him twice. For hereafter they were the owners of their own land. It might be rocky and hilly, it might be drought-stricken, but it was their land — to have and to hold, to keep and to cultivate — their land.

Later that evening, I talked with President Lopez Mateos about that ceremony.

"You can understand why they were emotional," he remarked. "They had worked hard for their land, some of them for 25 years. So it was a great day. We gave away a total of 240,000 acres because we feel that the backbone of democracy is to have the people own their own land. If this policy was followed in other Latin-American countries, there would be no danger of Communism.

"Unfortunately," he added, "in many Latin countries, those who have the power to govern also own the land. So it is difficult to bring about land reform."

Business Opposition

Another foundation stone of the Alliance for Progress is taxation of the upper brackets. The Kennedy Administration has laid down a requirement that U. S. loans will not be granted unless the receiving nation puts across tax reforms which make wealthy Latins pay their share of the tax load.

Crossing Northern Mexico with President Lopez Mateos' special train last winder were some of the top business leaders of Mexico, plus the cabinet. And at one cabinet breakfast, Minister of Finance Antonio Ortiz Mena broke the news to Mexican bankers and industrialists that he was planning new taxes.

Higher taxes are never pleasant news, but the Finance Minister explained that under the Alliance for Progress, Kennedy was urging that the upper classes pay their proportionate cost of reform.

"I want your help in revising our tax system," he told Mexican business leaders breakfasting with the President.

"You'll have it," spoke up Carlos Trouyet, head of the Banco Commercial in Mexico City. "What you propose is going to be for my benefit. To preserve our present system we have to be taxed."

Trouyet is one of the biggest businessmen in Mexico, once bought out International Telephone and Telegraph in Mexico, plus the Erickson Telephone interests, and sold most of the stock to the Mexican public.

His cooperation contrasts with the attitude of many U. S. businessmen who have been bitter and vindictive against Kennedy for not reducing taxes in order to bolster the sagging stock market. In fact, President, Kennedy may learn a lot of refreshing lessons in Mexico.

Wallowing In Apology

By John Crosby

BERLIN

Once noted for his arrogance, the German (if you'll pardon a sweeping generalization) is conspicuously, agonizingly apologetic.

You'll notice I sneaked in an apology of my own just now. A fellow gets the habit around here —apologizing for his opinions, his manners, his existence.

Americans who live here complain their speech becomes infected with the subjunctive, a grovelling usage, if ever there was one: "I would have liked to have spoken to him if this would have been at all possible." This preposterous elaboration where in America you'd say: "Is Joe there? I'd like to talk to him."

In England, I had a German driver taking me to the country. Suddenly he swooped to the side of the road, parked, faced me fully, and embarked on an apology the like of which I have never before heard: "In my whole life, I have never before done such a thing, sir. I have been a driver here for ten years and you may ask my employer if I have not a blameless record. I am terribly sorry, sir. Such a thing has never before happened and I promise you, sir, it will never happen again."

His crime? He'd missed a turn, for God's sake!

It went on and on, this apology. I tried, in my American fashion to say all right already, let's get on with it. Never mind. Forget it. But that wouldn't do at all. He wented to wallow. And he wallowed. Also for some reason, he couldn't apologize and drive at the same time. He had to face me squarely, rolling in his contrition. All he succeeded in doing was making me even later for my appointment.

This sort of thing goes on all the time, individually and collectively, and assumes some very odd shapes. If a German can't apologize for his own sins, he apologizes for someone else's. The other day, a very intelligent, liberal, and, I think, blameless German said to me: "After the war, I never thought I could leave Germany again. I never thought it would be possible for me to face an Englishman again. Not that I had done anything wrong, but simply because I belonged to the nation that produced Himmler and Goebbels and Hitler. Yet, within years, I found myself in London, climbing on the buses, looking at Englishmen right in the face as if nothing had happened."

This is what you might call the double apology. An apology for not being apologetic enough. I find it wearing and embarrassing and excessive. A little apology goes a long way. I'm partial to the English: "Sorry, sir." And that's that.

German newspapers wallow in apology on their editorial pages. When, for example, the new and very hip cathedral at Coventry was dedicated, replacing the old one that the Germans flattened during the war, German students, who had been babies during the act of flattening, contributed their labor to the building of what has been called the jazziest cathedral in Europe. German newspapers cried: "This is propitiation for our sins."

In fact, the Germans like to propitiate the sins of their fathers in many ways. German students travel to Israel to help rebuild a country whose people their fathers sinned against so grievously. Young Germans, who were in swaddling clothes when Hitler died, apologize fulsomely for the Nazi regime. Probably, the greatest orgy of mass guilt was "The Diary of Anne Frank," which Germans inflicted on themselves in scores of cities, going to the play and sitting there in silence, experiencing waves of national shame.

I talked to a professor of political science about all this wallowing in apology and he said something very interesting:

"The trouble is it's always the wrong people who feel guilty. People who have no cause to feel guilty—many of whom weren't alive in Hitler's time——feel the guiltiest. The ones who have every reason to feel guilty don't.

"I get pretty angry at my students when they say: 'We have no moral right to protest about the wall because of what the Germans did under Hitler.' I get pretty mad. I tell them morality is always a forward thing."

Golf Cart Boon To Players With Heart Trouble

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

When golf carts became available at our Lake Zurich club, many members were able to resume their favorite game. Those with heart trouble or chronic lung disorders could play without developing chest pain, shortness of breath, or cough. Furthermore, they were able to get around the course sooner because carts travel faster than walkers.

Golfing is considered one of our safest forms of recreation and exercise. But every year men have heart attacks, perforated ulcer, or stroke while playing or immediately thereafter.

Golf is blamed but in the many instances the attack would have occurred whether the individual was home, at the office, or at the country club. The game was coincidental and "his number was up," as the saying goes.

But this is not true of the person who has been warned not to overexert, walk uphill, or become overheated, excited, or angry. The heart and circulation take a beating when playing on hot days and in direct sunlight. This is too much for those with high blood pressure, coronary heart disease, or poor circulation. Playing after drinking or eating too much also adds to the risk.

All golfers should dress in keeping with the weather of the day—the temperature, humidity, and wind. More protection is needed for the light-skinned person who is sensitive to sunlight. Don a suitable hat and apply a cosmetic sun cream to all uncovered areas. Take a hint from the farmer and attach an umbrella to the golf cart.

The type of skin protection depends upon the degree of sensitivity to ultraviolet. There are creams that are not unsightly and offer maximum protection. The suntan or psoralen pills are used only by those who are extremely sensitive to the sun.

Curbing A Job Racket

A new law goes into effect in New York state on Sunday that requires employment agencies to tell applicants before promising them jobs what their duties and wages will be, and the total amount of agency fees. The law also prohibits agencies from holding luggage or other personal property of applicants in lieu of fee payment.

The measure is aimed at a growing job racket in the suburbs of New York City. Thousands of Southern young women, about 95 per cent of them Negro, are being "lured" to Manhattan with extravagant promises. When they arrive, they are pressured to take jobs as domestics with long hours and low pay. Some 10,000 girls have been recruited in the South in the past 10 years to fill a demand for maids in Westchester and Nassau counties, according to Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, chairman of the Community Service Committee of the Urban League of Greater New York.

Neither the League nor the city is satisfied with the new law. The city wanted a provision that would have required agencies to furnish food and lodging for recruited girls until jobs were found for them. The League's recommendations were drawn up at a meeting of representatives of government, welfare, and private employment agencies.

The hardship for some of the girls is difficult to correct, for many cannot write their own names or the names of their home states. Negroes make up about 10 per cent of the national population, but Negro women make up half of all domestic servants in private homes and fill one-fifth of other types of service jobs.

On Answering Letters

It seems that persons regard it as obligatory that when they write letters, one should immediately drop everything and reply. Bill Buckley, a good fellow, wrote to me, asking why I have no enthusiasm for Dr. Fred Schwarz. When I got around to it, I replied as I chose, still being a free person. Bill, however, got all excited and wrote a piece on my wickedness in not replying to him.

Now, it seems that my good friend, Gene Lyons, wrote to me about Schwarz and he also wrote to Arnold Forster of the Anti-Defamation League. I have not replied to this letter of Gene's. I often reply to letters by calling the person on the telephone. It is a habit. According to the "National Review," Forster also has not replied to Gene. I do not know anything about Forster's letter habits. Maybe he replies rapidly or in due course. Maybe he regards the Schwarz matter as too insignificant.

According to the "National Review": "In its June 5 and June 19 issues, National Review commented on the attempt to smear Dr. Fred Schwarz in conjunction with his first public activities in New York City, and on the role which Arnold Forster and the Anti-Defamation League have played in that defamatory operation."

If Dr. Schwarz was, as Bill Buckley says, "smeared," it would be interesting to see some evidence of that. For instance, I believe that an alien should mind his own business about the United States. I have for decades objected to and resisted Russian interference in American affairs. I have written about British and German interference in our affairs.

Dr. Schwarz is an Australian. He is not an American citizen. Therefore, before I can pay the slightest heed to his discussion of an American problem, I want to know why, if he lives here, earns his living here, works here, and only visits Australia occasionally, he does not become an American citizen.

When Dr. Schwarz came to New York, he advertised his operation as "The Christian Anti-Communism Crusade." No one can object to that. Surely many are Christians and it is a worthy cause to be an anti-Communist. But why remain an Australian and work in the United States and raise money in the United States and not become an American citizen?

Furthermore, why drop the name "Christian Anti-Communism Crusade" in New York? That is a good name, why not use it? Perhaps it was suggested that in New York, one must be more interdenominational. Well, that is not a bad argument. And yet, if one wants to be denominational, why not? To abolish denominations opportunistically is like the Supreme Court's attempt to abolish God.

Gene Lyons, who is a Senior Editor of the Reader's Digest and a truly well-informed person on Communism and Russia, said in his letter to Arnold Forster, "I have found nothing that would even remotely justify the implications of the 'thumbs down' by the ADL. I can only suppose, therefore, that you know something about him that nobody else seems to know. I do believe, both as a Jew and as a journalist, that you ought to share the information with me."

In an interview with a radio commentator Dr. Schwarz said: "Well, this (The Greater New York School of Anti-Communism) is not a function of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade; but they won't let me get away from it. They — this is — a non-political, non-sectarian, anti-Communism rally; and we're anxious and eager to have full cooperation of everyone on a basis of complete equality in this. We believe in cooperation and competition. And this is the area of complete cooperation."

Now, it would seem that in sponsoring his meeting at Madison Square Garden on June 28, Schwarz claimed exemption for admission tax on tickets on the grounds that the School was an activity of the Crusade. The tax exemption was granted. But for the same statement, he made contradictory claims as indicated above. This I do not understand. Perhaps Lyons or Schwarz can explain that.

In 1961, the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade had an income of $1,273,492.39, which is considerable money. No taxes are paid on this because Schwarz's work is supposed to be educational and religious and therefore tax exempt.

What bothers me is that Schwarz is not an American citizen—or was not when I last inquired.

President Wants To Take Case To The Country

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy and his staff are now thinking seriously about taking the Administration's case to the country before this year's Congressional election. Speaking trips and spot speeches are under consideration for both September and October.

With great reluctance, and with little visible effect, President Eisenhower also entered the fray in the off-year elections while he was in the White House. But the interventions President Kennedy is planning will be very different from the Eisenhower interventions, which were always momentary, grandiose, and bland. To the extent the other demands of his office permit, Kennedy wants to take the stump in earnest, in the old-fashioned American way.

Within the White House staff, in fact, something of an argument is already going on about where the President ought to concentrate his efforts.

Many smaller states have Senate seats and Governorships at stake, and one group would like these states to be covered. The other group is arguing for intense concentration on the big states like California, New York, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois, where the voting trend will have more influence on the future composition of the House of Representatives. The President apparently leans to the latter view.

Going to the country in an off-year, as the President is now thinking of doing, is a very risky course of action. By getting into the campaign with both feet, instead of helicoptering in and helicoptering out in the Eisenhower manner, a President automatically engages his personal prestige in local races, in which his name is not on the ballot. Thus he loses doubly if his party loses.

This time-honored argument for Presidential quiescence in off-years is still to be heard in the Kennedy White House. But there is much more force and conviction in the counter-argument, that taking the risk this year is one of those things the President "can't not do."

He "can't not do it," according to this line of argment, because history is now moving so fast, both in this country and the world, that the old American political rules are partly outmoded. Under the old rules, Kennedy would now stay above the contest. He would accept a Democratic set-back if that was the election result. He would then play politics against the new Congress for two years, in the hope of making a spectacular come-back in 1964.

But as the President himself has reportedly confided to those around him, it is "too dangerous" nowadays to waste two crucial years on political bickering between the White House and the Capitol. That means, in turn, that the President desperately needs a new Congress which will be more amenable and responsive than the present one.

Yet the old rules also say that the party in power always loses seats in an off-year. If the President takes the stump, in sum, he will be breaking the old rules about Presidential political behavior, in the hope of breaking the old rules about off-year election results.

At the moment, the general political atmosphere in Washington can only be described as rancid; but the rancidity and discouragement have not as yet infected the White House. The White House view is that the Republicans in Congress are paving the way for an unprecedentedly good Democratic showing next November, by their fairly persistent partisanship and negativism.

"They're getting the image of a know-nothing, do-nothing, see-nothing, go nowhere party, and it's bound to do them harm," according to one of the President's chief political advisers. Contrary to a recent report, moreover, the White House has most emphatically not been depressed by recent public opinion soundings by pollers.

The Louis Harris poll, for instance, which is supposed to have brought Kennedy bad news, has in fact discovered overwhelming public support for the President's action to hold the price line in steel, in tests taken both before and after the stock market decline. The same poll also found very recently that the President would carry New York state against Gov. Nelson Rockefeller by a whopping 2-to-1 majority if and election were held tomorrow.

For many other reasons besides the reports of the pollers, the White House in fact believes that the President has not yet lost support in the country, except in the business community, "which always votes Republican anyway." As yet in truth, there is only one possible development that alarms the White House.

If times are bad and jobs are scarce, it is admitted that the election can turn into a near-disaster.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

COMPUTER — The computer age is at hand! Even the Department of State has figured out a way to use these complex electronic gadgets. And prospects are bright for their use as a tool of diplomacy.

The department's Foreign Service has a group feeding information into one of the modern marvels dealing with all economic, political, geographic, historic and social facts it knows about foreign nations.

Right now, the work is limited to utilizing the machine's "memory" to extract quickly pertinent information that already has been programmed into the device. The idea is that the machine will spew out in concise, collected form all the information on any specific phase of an international problem that the Foreign Service wants to analyze. Foreign Service officers do the actual analyzing —not the machines.

The department has high hopes that its "monster" will eventually be able to help in arriving at correct solutions to difficult and complex international problems. With all information stored within it, the day may come—and fairly soon — when the machine will be able to evaluate alternative solutions to problems of diplomacy and indicate which is the best one and the prospects for its achievement.

There's no fear of technological unemployment among Foreign Service officers, however. Most of them doubt that the machine will ever be able to replace officers who arrive at conclusions from myriad facts and those on-the-spot observations that no mere machine could hope to duplicate.

Besides, it's pretty difficult to deck the machine out in striped pants — a prerequisite for success in a diplomatic career!

JFK Can Get Some Lessons About Alliance For Progress In Mexico

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In Mexico, President Kennedy can get some pointers on the Alliance for Progress from a government which began its own program for progress long ahead of any other American nation and put it across despite the bitter, sometimes belligerent, opposition of U.S. oil companies, U. S. cattle ranchers, and the U. S. State Department.

The Mexican program for progress, or "revolution" as it is generally called, began in 1910, seven years before the Russian revolution of 1917 and illustrates that the Communist drift in some parts of Latin America is not imported, but a home-grown product native to the Americas.

This is the kind of Communism which Kennedy and the United States have to worry about in various parts of Latin America.

Despite this revolutionary background, and despite many years of "yanqui" opposition, Mexico has now developed its own unique mixture or capitalism and socialism.

Though a social democracy, it is one of the few countries in the world where foreign capital can not only be invested, but withdrawn — without restriction — except in the petroleum, transportation, and soft-drink industries.

As a result, Woolworth has set up thriving five-and-ten-cent stores in Mexico; Sears, Roebuck conducts the top retail establishment in Mexico City; and of the approximate two billion dollars invested in Mexico, more than 75 per cent of it comes from the United States. This has helped make Mexico City the biggest in all Latin America — bigger than Buenos Aires or Rio de Janeiro, and about tied with Chicago as the second biggest city in the western hemisphere.

Foundation Of Democracy

One foundation stone of the Alliance for Progress is land reform. President Kennedy has urged Latin leaders to divide up the vast estates held by the Spanish aristocracy and create a small-farmer democracy.

Last winter I traveled with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos through the state of Chihuahua in Northern Mexico as he carried out Mexico's well-established land reform law.

At Guerrero, a dusty, rain-thirsty city south of Arizona, I watched the President hand out certificates of land ownership to a line of gnarled and weatherbeaten Mexican farmers. It was the biggest moment of their lives, as they reached out to receive their certificates, and shake hands with the President.

Some shook hands with him twice. For hereafter they were the owners of their own land. It might be rocky and hilly, it might be drought-stricken, but it was their land — to have and to hold, to keep and to cultivate — their land.

Later that evening, I talked with President Lopez Mateos about that ceremony.

"You can understand why they were emotional," he remarked. "They had worked hard for their land, some of them for 25 years. So it was a great day. We gave away a total of 240,000 acres because we feel that the backbone of democracy is to have the people own their own land. If this policy was followed in other Latin-American countries, there would be no danger of Communism.

"Unfortunately," he added, "in many Latin countries, those who have the power to govern also own the land. So it is difficult to bring about land reform."

Business Opposition

Another foundation stone of the Alliance for Progress is taxation of the upper brackets. The Kennedy Administration has laid down a requirement that U. S. loans will not be granted unless the receiving nation puts across tax reforms which make wealthy Latins pay their share of the tax load.

Crossing Northern Mexico with President Lopez Mateos' special train last winder were some of the top business leaders of Mexico, plus the cabinet. And at one cabinet breakfast, Minister of Finance Antonio Ortiz Mena broke the news to Mexican bankers and industrialists that he was planning new taxes.

Higher taxes are never pleasant news, but the Finance Minister explained that under the Alliance for Progress, Kennedy was urging that the upper classes pay their proportionate cost of reform.

"I want your help in revising our tax system," he told Mexican business leaders breakfasting with the President.

"You'll have it," spoke up Carlos Trouyet, head of the Banco Commercial in Mexico City. "What you propose is going to be for my benefit. To preserve our present system we have to be taxed."

Trouyet is one of the biggest businessmen in Mexico, once bought out International Telephone and Telegraph in Mexico, plus the Erickson Telephone interests, and sold most of the stock to the Mexican public.

His cooperation contrasts with the attitude of many U. S. businessmen who have been bitter and vindictive against Kennedy for not reducing taxes in order to bolster the sagging stock market. In fact, President, Kennedy may learn a lot of refreshing lessons in Mexico.

Wallowing In Apology

By John Crosby

BERLIN

Once noted for his arrogance, the German (if you'll pardon a sweeping generalization) is conspicuously, agonizingly apologetic.

You'll notice I sneaked in an apology of my own just now. A fellow gets the habit around here —apologizing for his opinions, his manners, his existence.

Americans who live here complain their speech becomes infected with the subjunctive, a grovelling usage, if ever there was one: "I would have liked to have spoken to him if this would have been at all possible." This preposterous elaboration where in America you'd say: "Is Joe there? I'd like to talk to him."

In England, I had a German driver taking me to the country. Suddenly he swooped to the side of the road, parked, faced me fully, and embarked on an apology the like of which I have never before heard: "In my whole life, I have never before done such a thing, sir. I have been a driver here for ten years and you may ask my employer if I have not a blameless record. I am terribly sorry, sir. Such a thing has never before happened and I promise you, sir, it will never happen again."

His crime? He'd missed a turn, for God's sake!

It went on and on, this apology. I tried, in my American fashion to say all right already, let's get on with it. Never mind. Forget it. But that wouldn't do at all. He wented to wallow. And he wallowed. Also for some reason, he couldn't apologize and drive at the same time. He had to face me squarely, rolling in his contrition. All he succeeded in doing was making me even later for my appointment.

This sort of thing goes on all the time, individually and collectively, and assumes some very odd shapes. If a German can't apologize for his own sins, he apologizes for someone else's. The other day, a very intelligent, liberal, and, I think, blameless German said to me: "After the war, I never thought I could leave Germany again. I never thought it would be possible for me to face an Englishman again. Not that I had done anything wrong, but simply because I belonged to the nation that produced Himmler and Goebbels and Hitler. Yet, within years, I found myself in London, climbing on the buses, looking at Englishmen right in the face as if nothing had happened."

This is what you might call the double apology. An apology for not being apologetic enough. I find it wearing and embarrassing and excessive. A little apology goes a long way. I'm partial to the English: "Sorry, sir." And that's that.

German newspapers wallow in apology on their editorial pages. When, for example, the new and very hip cathedral at Coventry was dedicated, replacing the old one that the Germans flattened during the war, German students, who had been babies during the act of flattening, contributed their labor to the building of what has been called the jazziest cathedral in Europe. German newspapers cried: "This is propitiation for our sins."

In fact, the Germans like to propitiate the sins of their fathers in many ways. German students travel to Israel to help rebuild a country whose people their fathers sinned against so grievously. Young Germans, who were in swaddling clothes when Hitler died, apologize fulsomely for the Nazi regime. Probably the greatest orgy of mass guilt was "The Diary of Anne Frank," which Germans inflicted on themselves in scores of cities, going to the play and sitting there in silence, experiencing waves of national shame.

I talked to a professor of political science about all this wallowing in apology and he said something very interesting:

"The trouble is it's always the wrong people who feel guilty. People who have no cause to feel guilty—many of whom weren't alive in Hitler's time——feel the guiltiest. The ones who have every reason to feel guilty don't.

"I get pretty angry at my students when they say: 'We have no moral right to protest about the wall because of what the Germans did under Hitler.' I get pretty mad. I tell them morality is always a forward thing."

St. Paul's Lutheran Church To Observe Its Birthday

FROSTBURG — The congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church will celebrate its 150th birthday with special services at 8:30 and 10:45 a. m., Sunday. Three former pastors of the Congregation will assist in the services. Rev. William J. Yingling, presently serving St. John's Evaneglical Lutheran Church, Parkville, will be the principal minister of the rite. Rev. Harold R. Stoudt, presently serving Trinity Lutheran Church, East Berlin, Pa., will read the lessons. Rev. Walter V. Simon, presently serving St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Churchville, Va., will preach the sermon.

St. Paul's Church traces its beginnings, as a congregation, back to the beginnings of Frostburg as a town. Rev. John George Butler, pastor of the English Lutheran Church, Cumberland, gathered those Lutherans living in and around Frostburg in the "Old Neff Meeting House" in the year 1812. Since that time, the congregation has been served by 26 different pastors, worshipping at three different sites.

After leaving the Neff Meeting House the Lutherans worshipped in a school house located on the National Road, and donated to the congregation by John Eckhart. In 1843 the "Pioneer Church" of Frostburg separated itself from the Cumberland St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, building a new church on Union Street. This is the building currently owned and occupied by the Zion United Church of Christ, East Main Street.

New World progress with the English language clashed with Old World conservatism and the German language. Out of this conflict, the English Evangelical Lutheran Church, composed mainly of the younger elements of the original Congregation, was born. Deeded one-half of a lot by Jacob Steyer, and buying the other half lot for the consideration of one-thousand dollars, the Congregation built a new frame church at the corner of Main and Union Streets, in the year 1860. This building was destroyed by fire in 1874.

The present brick structure was dedicated April 20, 1879. Its only major structural change was the addition of a $47,000 Parish Education Building in 1954. Today the Congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church claims 427 members confirmed and in good standing; 670 baptized members. The present Pastor is Rev. Kenneth Morelock.

Woman Sues Sheriff, W.Va. Police

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $5,329 suit was filed Friday against Mercer County Sheriff E. D. Bazzie and two State Policemen by a Bluefield apartment-house owner who claimed the officers shot up her place during a raid last Feb. 17.

Bazzie said the raid marked the start of the final phase of a burglary investigation which led to the arrest of six Bluefield policemen this week.

Also named with Bazzie were Troopers R. L. Mozingo and L.J. Trupo. Mrs. Frank Linkous sued for $329 as compensatory damages for actual loss and $5,000 as punitive damages.

Mrs. Linkous charged that the officers smashed into the rear of an apartment owned by her, entered a room and fired three sumachine bullets into a closest and wall. She also claimed that a lock and casings of two doors were broken by the three and caused the loss of another $100 in rentals resulting from the departure of tenants.

Bazzie said he and the troopers "were looking for William F. (Rabbit) Martin and an accomplice. Martin, wanted for safecracking, was known to be armed and dangerous. When he was later arrested, he was armed with a .45 caliber pistol and other weapons."

The officers said they had a warrant permitting them to seek Martin at the apartment house at the time of the raid. Martin was arrested March 1 and helped implicate members of the Bluefield police force.

Coal Town Museum Will Open

STOTESBURY, W. Va. (UPI)—The nation's first Coal Town Museum will be officially dedicated Saturday at this mining town 10 miles south of Beckley off the West Virginia Turnpike.

One room is developed into a replica mine, others contain progressive collections of mining lamps, hats, tools and other gear that changed as mining skills progressed. Still another houses equipment used by mining doctors in their offices three-quarters of a century ago.

The museum will be opened to the public, at a nominal fee and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Est daily, only 11 months after the people of Stotesbury conceived the idea of a memorial to the coal industry and coal miners.

The dedication ceremonies will include brief addresses by representatives of the State Department of Commerce, United Mine Workers of America, Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates and the U.S. Department of Mines.

Woman Sues Sheriff, W. Va. Police

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $5,329 suit was filed Friday against Mercer County Sheriff E. D. Bazzie and two State Policemen by a Bluefield apartment-house owner who claimed the officers shot up her place during a raid last Feb. 17.

Bazzie said the raid marked the start of the final phase of a burglary investigation which led to the arrest of six Bluefield policemen this week.

Also named with Bazzie were Troopers R. L. Mozingo and L.J. Trupo. Mrs. Frank Linkous sued for $329 as compensatory damages for actual loss and $5,000 as punitive damages.

Mrs. Linkous charged that the officers smashed into the rear of an apartment owned by her, entered a room and fired three sumachine bullets into a closest and wall. She also claimed that a lock and casings of two doors were broken by the three and caused the loss of another $100 in rentals resulting from the departure of tenants.

Bazzie said he and the troopers "were looking for William F. (Rabbit) Martin and an accomplice. Martin, wanted for safecracking, was known to be armed and dangerous. When he was later arrested, he was armed with a .45 caliber pistol and other weapons."

The officers said they had a warrant permitting them to seek Martin at the apartment house at the time of the raid. Martin was arrested March 1 and helped implicate members of the Bluefield police force.

Jane Schiller Captures Old Exports Bowl In CCC Golf Tourney

Salisbury Miss Fires A Record 150 For Trophy

Mrs. Norman Young Posts Low Net 147; Mrs. Cush Runner-Up

Jane Schiller, the Salisbury miss who was runner-up four times here, finally gained a leg on the Old Export Bowl when she fired a record shattering 150 for the 36-hole tournament to win the 12th annual women's invitational golf tourney at the Cumberland Country Club.

Miss Schiller, a graduate of the University of Maryland this year, plans to take up a teaching career in Salisbury, but in the meanwhile she proves she is one of Maryland's top women golfers as she plays out of the Green Hill Country Club.

Tours Course In 73

The winsome lass toured the par-71 course in 73 strokes yesterday to post a record single round for the tournament, and this coupled with her opening round of 77 gave her a 150 gross for the 36 holes of play — also a tournament record.

Miss Schiller fired nine consecutive fours on the front nine, posting two birdies and a pair of bogies. She then bogied the 12th, 16th and 18th holes and shot a birdie on the 14th for her two-over-par round yesterday.

Her 150 was 11 strokes better than Mrs. Frank Cush, Argygle Country Club, Washington, D. C., who posted 80-81—161. Third place went to Mrs. Henry Johnson of the host club who had 78-86—164. Mrs. Johnson had trailed Miss Schiller by only one stroke at the conclusion of the opening round on Thursday.

Bowie, Cumberland, 181, and wood Country Club, 179, Mrs. G. Mrs. F. B. Whitworth, Cumberland, 182.

Mrs. Norman Young, Naval Medical Center, shot the low net score for the tournament with 147. She posted rounds of 96-89 with 38 handicap for her total which gave her one of the top prizes of the tournament.

Division winners in the tourney were Mrs. Johnson, First Division with 78-86—164; Mrs. William Cook, Cumberland, 90-103—193, Second Division; Mrs. George Griffith, Cumberland, 205. Third Division.

Wins Division Title

Mrs. Bibby's 169 gave her the runner-up spot in the first division while Mrs. Nicholson's 90-89-26—153 gave her low net for the first division.

Low net in the second division went to Mrs. Anne McAndrews, Lakewood, 104-95—42—157 while the low net in the third division was captured by Mrs. Charles Helmrich, Cumberland, 160.

Tigers Blank Orioles, 1-0

Hank Aguirre Strikes Out 11

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Detroit Tiger southpaw Hank Aguirre, making one of his infrequent starts, Friday night shut out the Baltimore Orioles on three hits and struck out 11 for a 1-0 victory over Chuck Estrada.

The Tigers scored the game's only run in the first inning. With one out, consecutive singles by Bill Bruton and Norm Cash put Detroit runners on first and third bases. Rocky Colavito then scored Bruton with a deep fly to left.

Aguirre, normally a reliever, gave up a second-inning single to Jackie Brandt and a two-out seventh-inning single to Jim Gentile.

Pen-Mar League Slate Rearranged For Weekend

Frostburg To Play At Barrelville, But Cancels July 4 Tilt

A revised schedule of games in the Pen-Mar Baseball League this weekend will find three teams idle today and two contests on Sunday shifted to different sites.

Today's battle between Flintstone and Barrelville on the latter's diamond has been postponed until a later date and the two teams will be idle along with the Frostburg Merchants who are not slated to play.

The remaining games on today's schedule find Mt. Savage (8-5) at Lonaconing (4-9) and Hyndman (7-7) playing host to Grantsville (8-6) in a pair of 3:30 p. m. tilts.

After Sixth Straight

Mt. Savage has already beaten Lonaconing twice this season, winning 15-11 and 5-4, and will be after their sixth consecutive victory today. Hyndman's Merchants, playing .500 ball, has won two in a row since losing to Frostburg, 6-5, on June 17, and will be out to grab the series lead with Grantsville today. The teams have split two previous meetings, Hyndman winning 14-1 and Grantsville copping the return engagement 6-5.

Sunday's battle between Barrelville and Frostburg has been moved to the Barrelville diamond because of the sesquicentennial celebration in Frostburg, while the Mt. Savage game will be played at Hyndman instead of at Mt. Savage. Lonaconing will be at Grantsville on Sunday with all games slated to get underway at 2:30 p. m.

Frostburg has won both engagements with Barrelville this season, 5-4, and 5-2, but the Old Germans hope to improve their runner-up position in Sunday's meeting.

Split Two Games

Mt. Savage and Hyndman have split two games, with the Merchants winning 7-4 and the Old Germans taking a 7-0 decision. The two teams have split a pair of decisions to date, Grantsville winning 18-2 while Coney scored 14-9.

League officials also announced the July 4 game between Frostburg and Grantsville will be played at a later date because the Merchants have scheduled a game with the Dauphins of Baltimore as part of the Frostburg celebration.

The holiday tilt is set for Beall High School field with Bill Andrews and Moose Arnone as the arbiters.

Hull, Cheek Cop Jr. Golf Titles

Hagerstown Youth Wins On Extra Hole

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—Dave Hull of Hagerstown and Bob Cheek, a visitor from Pittsburgh, won sudden death playoffs to cop division titles in the Maryland junior golf championships Friday.

Hull, playing out of Beaver Creek, defeated Jim Duffy of Court House, Va., on the first extra hole after they shot the low score 82 among the 16-17-year-olds. Duffy's drive went out of bounds on the first hole of the playoff.

Hull replaced Rickey Meissner of Argyle as the junior champ. Meissner finished in a four-way tie for fifth place with a score of 76.

Cheek's victory over Jimmy Ball of the Country Club of Maryland on the second extra hole was some solace for his younger brother.

Eddie Cheek shot a score of 72 on the par 70 Suburban course and thought he had won competition for boys under 14. But there was competition only for 14-16 and 16-17 year olds.

Eddie won't be 14 until next October.

Jane Schiller Captures Old Exports Bowl In CCC Golf Tourney

Salisbury Miss Fires A Record 150 For Trophy

Mrs. Norman Young Posts Low Net 147; Mrs. Cush Runner-Up

Jane Schiller, the Salisbury miss who was runner-up four times here, finally gained a leg on the Old Export Bowl when she fired a record shattering 150 for the 36-hole tournament to win the 12th annual women's invitational golf tourney at the Cumberland Country Club.

Miss Schiller, a graduate of the University of Maryland this year, plans to take up a teaching career in Salisbury, but in the meanwhile she proves she is one of Maryland's top women golfers as she plays out of the Green Hill Country Club.

Tours Course In 73

The winsome lass toured the par-71 course in 73 strokes yesterday to post a record single round for the tournament, and this coupled with her opening round of 77 gave her a 150 gross for the 36 holes of play — also a tournament record.

Miss Schiller fired nine consecutive fours on the front nine, posting two birdies and a pair of bogies. She then bogied the 12th, 16th and 18th holes and shot a birdie on the 14th for her two-over-par round yesterday.

Her 150 was 11 strokes better than Mrs. Frank Cush, Argygle Country Club, Washington, D. C., who posted 80-81—161. Third place went to Mrs. Henry Johnson of the host club who had 78-86—164. Mrs. Johnson had trailed Miss Schiller by only one stroke at the conclusion of the opening round on Thursday.

Mrs. Bibby Fourth

Mrs. G. W. Bibby, of Cumberland, shot 169 for fourth place and others in the top ten were Mrs. William Pye, Manor Country Club, 172, Mrs. Paul Streit, Chevy Chase, 173; Miss Midge Kaufman, Woodholme, Baltimore, 174; Mrs. Pat Nicholson, Lake-L. Bowie, Cumberland, 181, and wood Country Club, 179, Mrs. G. Mrs. F. B. Whitworth, Cumberland, 182.

Mrs. Norman Young, Naval Medical Center, shot the low net score for the tournament with 147. She posted rounds of 96-89 with 38 handicap for her total which gave her one of the top prizes of the tournament.

Division winners in the tourney were Mrs. Johnson, First Division with 78-86—164; Mrs. William Cook, Cumberland, 90-103—193, Second Division; Mrs. George Griffith, Cumberland, 205. Third Division.

Wins Division Title

Mrs. Bibby's 169 gave her the runner-up spot in the first division while Mrs. Nicholson's 90-89-26—153 gave her low net for the first division.

Low net in the second division went to Mrs. Anne McAndrews, Lakewood, 104-95—42—157 while the low net in the third division was captured by Mrs. Charles Helmrich, Cumberland, 160.

Flag prizes in yesterday's round went to Midge Kaufman on No. 10, Mrs. Young, No. 12, and Mrs. Edgar Sterne, Country Club of Maryland, on No. 18.

Veteran, Rookie Tied With 139s

CHICAGO (AP)—Paul Harney, a veteran seeking his first victory since the 1959 Pensacola Open, and Jacky Cupit, voted "rookie of the year" on the 1961 PGA tour, shared the 36-hole lead of the $50,000 Western Open Friday with 3-under-par 139.

The 24-year-old Cupit of Longview, Tex., 1961 Canadian Open winner who gets plenty of advice from five golfing pro brothers, fashioned a second round of 34-36—70. He took a bogey 5 on the last hole after playing a second shot safe from the woods.

Harney, 32, from Worcester, Mass., had seven one-putt greens to author a 36-34—70 despite a three-putt double bogey 5 on No. 8.

Hawkins Trails By One

Only one stroke behind came hungry Fred Hawkins, the first-round leader with a 68 who carded 35-37—72 for 140. Hawkins, whose only victory on the PGA circuit was the 1956 Oklahoma City Open, finished the last three holes with bogey, birdie deuce with a two-foot putt, and bogey.

Tigers Blank Orioles, 1-0

Hank Aguirre Strikes Out 11

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Detroit Tiger southpaw Hank Aguirre, making one of his infrequent starts, Friday night shut out the Baltimore Orioles on three hits and struck out 11 for a 1-0 victory over Chuck Estrada.

The Tigers scored the game's only run in the first inning. With one out, consecutive singles by Bill Bruton and Norm Cash put Detroit runners on first and third bases. Rocky Colavito then scored Bruton with a deep fly to left.

Aguirre, normally a reliever, gave up a second-inning single to Jackie Brandt and a two-out seventh-inning single to Jim Gentile.

Pen-Mar League Slate Rearranged For Weekend

Frostburg To Play At Barrelville, But Cancels July 4 Tilt

A revised schedule of games in the Pen-Mar Baseball League this weekend will find three teams idle today and two contests on Sunday shifted to different sites.

Today's battle between Flintstone and Barrelville on the latter's diamond has been postponed until a later date and the two teams will be idle along with the Frostburg Merchants who are not slated to play.

The remaining games on today's schedule find Mt. Savage (8-5) at Lonaconing (4-9) and Hyndman (7-7) playing host to Grantsville (8-6) in a pair of 3:30 p. m. tilts.

After Sixth Straight

Mt. Savage has already beaten Lonaconing twice this season, winning 15-11 and 5-4, and will be after their sixth consecutive victory today. Hyndman's Merchants, playing .500 ball, has won two in a row since losing to Frostburg, 6-5, on June 17, and will be out to grab the series lead with Grantsville today. The teams have split two previous meetings, Hyndman winning 14-1 and Grantsville copping the return engagement 6-5.

Sunday's battle between Barrelville and Frostburg has been moved to the Barrelville diamond because of the sesquicentennial celebration in Frostburg, while the Mt. Savage game will be played at Hyndman instead of at Mt. Savage. Lonaconing will be at Grantsville on Sunday with all games slated to get underway at 2:30 p. m.

Frostburg has won both engagements with Barrelville this season, 5-4, and 5-2, but the Old Germans hope to improve their runner-up position in Sunday's meeting.

Split Two Games

Mt. Savage and Hyndman have split two games, with the Merchants winning 7-4 and the Old Germans taking a 7-0 decision. The two teams have split a pair of decisions to date, Grantsville winning 18-2 while Coney scored 14-9.

League officials also announced the July 4 game between Frostburg and Grantsville will be played at a later date because the Merchants have scheduled a game with the Dauphins of Baltimore as part of the Frostburg celebration.

The holiday tilt is set for Beall High School field with Bill Andrews and Moose Arnone as the arbiters.

Hull, Cheek Cop Jr. Golf Titles

Hagerstown Youth Wins On Extra Hole

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—Dave Hull of Hagerstown and Bob Cheek, a visitor from Pittsburgh, won sudden death playoffs to cop division titles in the Maryland junior golf championships Friday.

Hull, playing out of Beaver Creek, defeated Jim Duffy of Court House, Va., on the first extra hole after they shot the low score 82 among the 16-17-year-olds. Duffy's drive went out of bounds on the first hole of the playoff.

Hull replaced Rickey Meissner of Argyle as the junior champ. Meissner finished in a four-way tie for fifth place with a score of 76.

Cheek's victory over Jimmy Ball of the Country Club of Maryland on the second extra hole was some solace for his younger brother.

Eddie Cheek shot a score of 72 on the par 70 Suburban course and thought he had won competition for boys under 14. But there was competition only for 14-16 and 16-17 year olds.

Eddie won't be 14 until next October.

Four American Women Survive At Wimbledon

Top Two Men's Teams Advance

By JOHN FARROW

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Vicky Palmer, a 17-year-old surprise from Phoenix, Ariz., and the two top men's doubles teams gave the United States a mild lift Friday in the All-England Tennis Championships.

Miss Palmer, bouncing around in a beehive hair-do, upset Robyn Ebbern of Australia 2-6, 6-0, 7-5 and became the fourth American woman survivor in the ladies' singles competition.

Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., and Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., stunned Italy's veteran team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the second round of men's doubles 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 15-13. The Italians won the championship in 1956.

The other American team bidding for Davis Cup recognition, Chuck McKinley of St. Ann., Mo., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., beat the secondary Australian pair, Bill Bowery and Brian Knox 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4. McKinley showed no ill effects from the arm injury which caused him to lose in singles to Britain's little known Mike Hann.

Miss Palmer, the U.S. Junior Girls champion, had to come from behind twice to beat the favored Miss Ebbern.

Miss Palmer thus went into the women's round of 16 with second-seeded Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., eighth-seeded Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula Vista, Calif., and upsetter Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., all of whom advanced previously.

This quartet of fighting ladies and a gangling, 6-foot-3 student from Coral Gables, Fla., Frank Froehling, are keeping Uncle Sam's colors flying in the closing stages of the singles compeitions.

Froehling, the lone American male survivor, plays sixth-seeded Manuel Santana of Spain in the fourth round Saturday and he is given a good chance of providing the tournament with another of its many upsets.

The tall, angular Florida youth, a student at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., warmed up for the test in a mixed doubles match in which he and Justina Bricka of St. Louis lost to Geoff Pares of Australia and Judy Alvarez of Tampa, Fla., 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Dan Athletics, Dodgers Notch Little Loop Wins

The unbeaten Athletics scored their fourth straight triumph in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday at East Side field, beating the Twins, 18-4, to retain their league-leading edge over the idle Tigers.

Dave Stitcher and Grove held the Twins to four hits with Stitcher picking up the win as the Athletics exploded for 11 runs in the first inning.

Kenny McFarland collected a home run and two singles and Gary Long hit for the circuit and added a double and single to pace the Athletics at the plate. Terry Ashby had a double and triple for the winners. Leading the Twins was Gellner with a homer and Layton with a triple.

The Dodgers picked up their second win with an easy 13-1 decision over the Angels (3-2) yesterday at Constitution Park, scoring 12 runs in the first inning and coasting the rest of the way.

Mark Nies had two doubles, John Aldridge a double and single, Bobby Fields a three-run triple, and Poncho Klosterman a three-bagger and a single. Crabtree had a pair of singles and Wilt and Powers smacked doubles for the Twins.

Klosterman pitched a six-hitter to chalk up his second win of the season. Eddie Eyler was the loser. The results:

AT CONSTITUTION PARK:

Angels	000 001— 1 6 4
Dodgers	(12)01 00x—13 11 1

Eddie Eyler, John Genevie (1) and Thompson, Powers (1). Poncho Klosterman and Tom Mathews.
Loser—Eyler.

AT EAST SIDE:

Twins	002 200— 4 4 5
Athletics	(11) 21 40x—18 14 0

Densock, Layton (3) and Wolf, Hollern (2). Dave Stitcher, Grove (5) and Kyle Geatz, Reynolds (5).
Winner—Stitcher. Loser—Densock.
HR—McFarland, Long (Athletics), Gellner (Twins).

Doolan Tosses No-Hitter For Dapper Yankees

Danny Doolan pitched a no-hit, no-run contest in his first winning effort for the Yankees as they defeated the Orioles, 5-0, yesterday at Post Field in a Dapper Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League.

Mike Gray belted a home run and single and Bob Snyder had a double and single to pace the Yankees at the plate.

Doolan struck out nine and walked three batters while his mates made but one miscue behind him in his no-hit effort, the second of the season in the little league this year. Terry Ashby of the Athletics in the Dan Division hurled the first one. The results:

Orioles	000 000—0 0 4
Yankees	201 02x—5 7 1

Four American Women Survive At Wimbledon

Top Two Men's Teams Advance

By JOHN FARROW

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Vicky Palmer, a 17-year-old surprise from Phoenix, Ariz., and the two top men's doubles teams gave the United States a mild lift Friday in the All-England Tennis Championships.

Miss Palmer, bouncing around in a beehive hair-do, upset Robyn Ebbern of Australia 2-6, 6-0, 7-5 and became the fourth American woman survivor in the ladies' singles competition.

Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., and Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., stunned Italy's veteran team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the second round of men's doubles 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 15-13. The Italians won the championship in 1956.

The other American team bidding for Davis Cup recognition, Chuck McKinley of St. Ann., Mo., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., beat the secondary Australian pair, Bill Bowery and Brian Knox 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4. McKinley showed no ill effects from the arm injury which caused him to lose in singles to Britain's little known Mike Hann.

Miss Palmer, the U.S. Junior Girls champion, had to come from behind twice to beat the favored Miss Ebbern.

Miss Palmer thus went into the women's round of 16 with second-seeded Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., eighth-seeded Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula Vista, Calif., and upsetter Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., all of whom advanced previously.

This quartet of fighting ladies and a gangling, 6-foot-3 student from Coral Gables, Fla., Frank Froehling, are keeping Uncle Sam's colors flying in the closing stages of the singles compeitions.

Froehling, the lone American male survivor, plays sixth-seeded Manuel Santana of Spain in the fourth round Saturday and he is given a good chance of providing the tournament with another of its many upsets.

The tall, angular Florida youth, a student at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., warmed up for the test in a mixed doubles match in which he and Justina Bricka of St. Louis lost to Geoff Pares of Australia and Judy Alvarez of Tampa, Fla., 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Dan Athletics, Dodgers Notch Little Loop Wins

The unbeaten Athletics scored their fourth straight triumph in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday at East Side field, beating the Twins, 18-4, to retain their league-leading edge over the idle Tigers.

Dave Stitcher and Grove held the Twins to four hits with Stitcher picking up the win as the Athletics exploded for 11 runs in the first inning.

Kenny McFarland collected a home run and two singles and Gary Long hit for the circuit and added a double and single to pace the Athletics at the plate. Terry Ashby had a double and triple for the winners. Leading the Twins was Gellner with a homer and Layton with a triple.

The Dodgers picked up their second win with an easy 13-1 decision over the Angels (3-2) yesterday at Constitution Park, scoring 12 runs in the first inning and coasting the rest of the way.

Mark Nies had two doubles, John Aldridge a double and single, Bobby Fields a three-run triple, and Poncho Klosterman a three-bagger and a single. Crabtree had a pair of singles and Wilt and Powers smacked doubles for the Twins.

Klosterman pitched a six-hitter to chalk up his second win of the season. Eddie Eyler was the loser. The results:

AT CONSTITUTION PARK:
Angels 000 001— 1 6 4
Dodgers (12)01 00x—13 11 1
Eddie Eyler, John Genevie (1) and Thompson, Powers (1). Poncho Klosterman and Tom Mathews.

Doolan Tosses No-Hitter For Dapper Yankees

Danny Doolan pitched a no-hit, no-run contest in his first winning effort for the Yankees as they defeated the Orioles, 5-0, yesterday at Post Field in a Dapper Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League.

The triumph was the fourth in five decisions, three via shutouts, for the Yankees while the Orioles have lost three of four.

Mike Gray belted a home run and single and Bob Snyder had a double and single to pace the Yankees at the plate.

Doolan struck out nine and walked three batters while his mates made but one miscue behind him in his no-hit effort, the second of the season in the little league this year. Terry Ashby of the Athletics in the Dan Division hurled the first one. The results:

Orioles 000 000—0 0 4
Yankees 201 02x—5 7 1
Dave Hull and Senn, Weisenmiller (5). Danny Doolan and Tim Travis.
HR—Mike Gray (Yankees).

Market Continues Climb As Trading Slows Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks scored their third consecutive gain on slightly slower trading Friday, lifting the popular averages to the highest level in eight sessions.

The market was showing its best gain around mid-session but started down and lost around half the gain by the close as news got around that the steel industry was planning severe pro[illegible]ction cutbacks in the month of July.

Brokers felt most of the early buying represented covering by worried short sellers who had borrowed stock in the expectation of replacing it later at lower prices. However, the bad steel news seemed to relieve some of the pressure on these interests allowing the market to soften some.

Trading totaled 4,720,000 shares against 5,440,000 on Thursday. With 1,293 issues traded, 760 advanced, two to 1962 highs, and 340 declines, 24 reaching lows for the year.

The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.34 at 54.75. The agency said this represented an increase of roughly $1.8 billion more in paper values.

The Dow-Jones averages showed industrials up 3.93 to 561.28, rails ahead 0.42 to 118.63 and utilities up 1.20 to 108.28. The rise in the 65 stock composite average was roughly ¾ of 1 per cent.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain futures closed mixed Friday on an active Chicago Board of Trade after firming during early dealings.

Wheat closed off ⅜ to up ¼, corn off 1 to up ⅞, oats off ⅛ to up ½, rye off ½ to up ⅛ and soybeans off ¼ to 1.

Evening up transactions made up much of the trade on the first day for posting intentions to deliver against July contracts.

Initial notices were fairly light. Wheat showed the largest figure with 1,900,000 bushels posted at 10 a.m.

Most wheat prices firmed at the outset under local and commission buying. Hedge sales were small. Large locals bought wheat on the belief flour sales will pick up soon.

Reports from the southwest said the government may raise its formula selling price on CCC wheat Monday, possibly as much as 8 cents.

Nearby corn prices firmed on commission buying and short covering. Cash houses bought July and sold September at 1½ cents difference. New crop contracts fell back from early highs.

Oats and rye had little feature. Elevators bought July oats and sold September.

Soybeans rallied from an early decline, but the advance failed to hold. Local longs sold deferred contracts. Reports of dryness in parts of the midwest caused early buiyng of beans and feed grains.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Continues Climb As Trading Slows Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks scored their third consecutive gain on slightly slower trading Friday, lifting the popular averages to the highest level in eight sessions.

The market was showing its best gain around mid-session but started down and lost around half the gain by the close as news got around that the steel industry was planning severe pro[illegible]ction cutbacks in the month of July.

Brokers felt most of the early buying represented covering by worried short sellers who had borrowed stock in the expectation of replacing it later at lower prices. However, the bad steel news seemed to relieve some of the pressure on these interests allowing the market to soften some.

Trading totaled 4,720,000 shares against 5,440,000 on Thursday. With 1,293 issues traded, 760 advanced, two to 1962 highs, and 340 declines, 24 reaching lows for the year.

The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.34 at 54.75. The agency said this represented an increase of roughly $1.8 billion more in paper values.

The Dow-Jones averages showed industrials up 3.93 to 561.28, rails ahead 0.42 to 113.63 and utilities up 1.20 to 108.28. The rise in the 65 stock composite average was roughly ¾ of 1 per cent.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

Wheat closed off ⅜ to up ¼, corn off 1 to up ⅞, oats off ⅛ to up ½, rye off ½ to up ⅛ and soybeans off ¼ to 1.

Evening up transactions made up much of the trade on the first day for posting intentions to deliver against July contracts.

Initial notices were fairly light. Wheat showed the largest figure with 1,900,000 bushels posted at 10 a.m.

Most wheat prices firmed at the outset under local and commission buying. Hedge sales were small. Large locals bought wheat on the belief flour sales will pick up soon.

Reports from the southwest said the government may raise its formula selling price on CCC wheat Monday, possibly as much as 8 cents.

Nearby corn prices firmed on commission buying and short covering. Cash houses bought July and sold September at 1½ cents difference. New crop contracts fell back from early highs.

Oats and rye had little feature. Elevators bought July oats and sold September.

Soybeans rallied from an early decline, but the advance failed to hold. Local longs sold deferred contracts. Reports of dryness in parts of the midwest caused early buiyng of beans and feed grains.

Outside markets were mixed.

Civil Service Official, Commissioners Meet

W. Eric Gibbs, chairman of the Allegany County Civil Service commissioners yesterday to discuss the newly-drawn classification ordinance for county workers.

At the outset Gibbs said that someone had done a lot of work in preparing the new classification list. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, has been doing the bulk of this work for the commissioners.

The main part of Gibbs' discussion was on some changes in wording of the ordinance pertaining to overtime, work schedules and similar items. Clarification of some of the sections of the regulations was recommended by the Civil Service Commission, according to Gibbs.

Man Is Fined $100 On Delinquency Count

A local man was fined $100 today in Allegany County Juvenile Court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of five minor boys.

Court attaches said he was Robert S. Imes, 230 Cecilia Street.

He entered a plea of guilty and was found guilty by Magistrate Louis Fatkin of buying five boys beer.

In another case yesterday, a 15-year-old girl who was charged with being a delinquent minor after being found intoxicated along with two adult women was placed on probation today when she appeared for sentencing in the same court.

The women, Violet Irene Price, 32, and Paula Faye Parks, 23, were each fined $50 in Juvenile Court when they were found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of the 15-year-old girl.

July Term Of Court Opens On Monday

The July term of Circuit Court will open Monday with Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris and Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey presiding.

The docket will be called and attorneys who want to have their cases tried either before the court or jury can have them scheduled.

Beall Votes For Bill

Sen. J. Glenn Beall was among those voting to increase the federal debt ceiling to $308 billion as proposed by President Kennedy.

Sen. John Marshall Butler opposed the move.

In the House, Sixth District congressman Charles Mc. Mathias voted in opposition to another Kennedy proposal, the foreign trade bill. He also voted against an earlier motion to recommit the bill to committee.

Civil Service Official, Commissioners Meet

W. Eric Gibbs, chairman of the Allegany County Civil Service commissioners yesterday to discuss the newly-drawn classification ordinance for county workers.

At the outset Gibbs said that someone had done a lot of work in preparing the new classification list. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, has been doing the bulk of this work for the commissioners.

The main part of Gibbs' discussion was on some changes in wording of the ordinance pertaining to overtime, work schedules and similar items. Clarification of some of the sections of the regulations was recommended by the Civil Service Commission, according to Gibbs.

In another case yesterday, a 15-year-old girl who was charged with being a delinquent minor after being found intoxicated along with two adult women was placed on probation today when she appeared for sentencing in the same court.

The women, Violet Irene Price, 32, and Paula Faye Parks, 23, were each fined $50 in Juvenile Court when they were found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of the 15-year-old girl.

School Prayer Ruling Cited In Finan's Talk

Jaycee's Dinner Is Held At Shrine Club

Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland, last night said he was startled by a ruling handed down earlier this week by the U. S. Supreme Court in reference to the uttering of a non-denominational prayer by school children of New York State.

He pointed out the highest court in the land ruled against such prayers in his talk last night at the Junior Association of Commerce annual installation of officers and awards dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mr. Finan reminded those in attendance that the public should become more concerned with the thinking of those in "high places."

He said the existence of a Supreme Being is evident in our "basic documents" including the Declaration of Independence and the preamble of the Constitution of the State of Maryland which apparently would not be readable in the classroom according to the ruling of the Supreme Court.

Danger Cited

With such rulings by the Supreme Court earlier this week the nation is embarking on a very dangerous road and future citizens could become "sterile of spiritual values" he added.

Going back in the nation's history he mentioned that George Washington fell on his knees in the snow at Valley Forge and asked for assistance from a Supreme Being for the Continental Army troops.

Mr. Finan was introduced by Joseph Gratton, vice president of the Jaycees who was installed last night along with other officers by Louis Woodring, Silver Spring, district vice president of the Jaycees.

Del. William Walsh, local attorney, was slated to be master of ceremonies but was unable to attend as his wife gave birth to a baby boy at Memorial Hospital yesterday evening.

Invocation was given by Rev. August W. Peters Jr., assistant rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and the pledge of allegiance was led by Dr. Jack Arch and the Jaycee Creed by Ronald J. Screen.

Install Officers

Officers for the coming year include John D. May, president, Mr. Gratton, and Alan Douglas, vice presidents; Gaylord Brooks, secretary; Robert Hutcheson, treasurer and Richard Cover, state director.

Following an address by the incoming president, Mr. May, the program ended and a dance was held with music by Tommy Smithem's orchestra.

Y Swim Classes Set In July

Central YMCA will conduct swimming instruction in four classes during July, according to Benjamin Haines, program director.

Tadpole classes for boys and girls ages five through eight who cannot swim will be conducted in eight lessons. Classes begin July 9 at 3 p. m. and will continue every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Frog classes, a post-graduate course for tadpoles and those who can swim a little will also be held in eight sessions beginning July 10 at 3 p. m. and every Tuesday and Thursday at that time.

Boys and girls passing the minimum requirements in this class will be eligible for regular membership to the Y.

Y beginners class is for members of the Y at least nine years of age and a swim campaign program is open to all non-member boys and girls nine years of age and over.

Information about the swim classes can be obtained by calling Central YMCA.

District Forester Will Move Today To LaVale Office

After more than 30 years at the Allegany County Court House, the office of the district forester will be moved today from the third floor there to the former LaVale drug store building on National Highway.

District Forester W.A.C. Irwin expects the office to be open for business in LaVale Monday. The forester serves Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties.

Ridgeley High Band To Practice Monday

The Ridgeley High School Band will begin summer practice Monday, July 2, at 11 a.m. at the high school, according to Karl Pfiefer, director.

He said it is important that all members attend, as two appearances are scheduled the following week.

Jaycees Install Officers

Gaylord Brooks Named Jaycee Of The Year

Gaylord Brooks, 211 Saratoga Street, senior sanitarian in the Allegany County Health Department, last night received the "Jaycee of the Year" award during the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce's annual installation of officers and awards dinner held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Frederick J. Hill, outgoing president of the local chapter, in presenting the award, said Mr. Brooks won the award over at least eight other members and was given the recognition for being active on more committees in promoting Jaycee projects the year around.

Carl "Pete" Robb was honored as the outstanding new Jaycee of the year.

Citations Presented

Robert A. Reinhard, secretary-treasurer of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Works here, received a citation for the soft drink company's cooperation in the Miss Cumberland Jaycee contest as well as his work in promoting junior golf and junior tennis.

Buford L. Saville and J. Holland Rannells of the Potomac Valley Television Company received a citation for their contribution toward the Americanism Committee which sponsored a number of TV programs.

A special certificate of appreciation went to Ronald J. Screen for his "extra efforts in promoting Americanism."

C. Louis Spoerl Jr. received the "Speak Up Jaycee" award, having been the district winner representing Cumberland in the state finals. The runners-up were John K. Snyder and Robert M. Hutcheson.

The Times and Alleganian Company and the two local radio stations were cited for publicizing Jaycee work.

Activities Noted

The local chapter was also presented a state award for being the outstanding chapter in September when such an award was initiated by the state Jaycees.

Mr. Hill said Cumberland placed first in Division Four of the Giessenbier Competition, a top state award. In that division the local chapter competed with Baltimore and other large chapters.

The local chapter was third place runner-up in the Dave Kauffman Award, sponsored by the Cumberland unit. Mr. Hill this year was named third outstanding president of the Maryland Jaycees. There are 54 chapters in the state.

The local chapter also received the Founders Plaque for its work in getting a chapter organized in Frostburg. James Kelly is president of that chapter.

Three Trophies On Hand For Fishing Rodeo

Three trophies and about 100 prizes are on hand as awards for the 14th annual Fishing Rodeo which opens today at 10 a.m. in the Battie Mixon fishing hole at Oldtown.

The top awards are the P. O. Weber Trophy, to be awarded by the Cumberland Outdor Club to the child catching the largest bass; the Battie Mixon Trophy, which will be awarded by the Oldtown Sportsmen Club for the largest catfish, and the Foreign Wars Trophy given by the Oldtown VFW for the largest bluegill.

About 100 prizes, ranging in value from 10 cents to $10, have been donated by Cumberland and Oldtown business firms.

Finan Rules:

New House Seats Open To Present Delegates

BALTIMORE (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan ruled Friday that present members of the Maryland General Assembly are eligible for nomination to 19 new House seats provided under the recent reapportionment bill.

Finan said a ban in the Maryland Constitution against legislators' taking offices created during their terms does not apply to the new seats.

The opinion answers a query of Del. Alice W. Hostetler, D-Montgomery, who may have had in mind the possible candidacies of two legislators who failed in bids for higher offices in the May 15 Democratic primary.

Dels. Blair Lee III and Alger Y. Barbee, both Montgomery County Democrats, sought unsuccessfully the nominations for U.S. Senate and State Senate, respectively.

The constitution declares that no member of the legislature may "during the whole period of time, for which he was elected, be eligible to any office, which shall have been created . . . during such term."

Finan and one of his assistants, Robert F. Sweeney, said it "would be torturing logic" to consider the provision barring a member of the current legislature from seeking an office created during the past four years.

Persons filling the new House seats will not take office until next January, which is after the terms of the present legislators have expired.

Pastor Hurt As Car Hits Barricade

A Wheeling, W. Va., minister was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital late yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered when the car he was driving struck a traffic barricade on Baltimore Avenue at Henderson Avenue.

Rev. Luther MacDonald, 66, of Route 3, Wheeling, W. Va., suffered a lacerated forehead in the crash which occurred after the brakes of his car failed as he was going south on Baltimore Avenue.

City police said Rev. Mr. MacDonald was descending the steep grade when his brakes failed. He managed to get the vehicle into second gear as it smashed into the barricade.

Damage estimated at $500 was caused to the front of the vehicle as it tore apart the angle iron which forms the barricade.

Cpl. Donald Boggs investigated the accident which occurred at 5:04 p.m.

John J. Hafer Pleads Innocent

BALTIMORE (AP) — Appearing without a lawyer, John J. Hafer of Cumberland pleaded innocent Friday to a charge that he assaulted a tax agent.

"This trial is a very expensive proposition," Hafer, 56-year-old funeral director, told U.S. District Judge W. Calvin Chesnut while being arraigned. Chesnut had suggested at some length that Hafer needed a lawyer.

A federal grand jury indicted Hafer on June 12 on a charge of assaulting Milton Kyhos, a special agent in the Intelligence Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

The indictment said the incident happened June 1 at the Cumberland Post Office.

Judge Chesnut finally permitted Hafer to represent himself at the arraignment, but warned Hafer that he was facing serious charges and should have a lawyer when his case comes up for trial. Hafer said he would.

J. Hardin Marion III, assistant U.S. attorney, said the trial probably would come up during August. Hafer's bond of $5,000 was continued.

School Outside City Would Up Cost Of Buses

Projection Points To Building Here

In determining that two proposed new junior high schools should be built in Cumberland, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and the Allegany County Board of Education were influenced by a projection of school enrollment prepared by the Pupil Personnel Department under the direction of Homer S. Higgins, supervisor.

This projection was based on school census figures compiled in Mr. Higgins' office on the basis of children already born who live in the areas served by the respective schools.

These projections indicated a 1962-63 school year enrollment in the proposed North Cumberland Junior High School of 824 children. Of the 418 seventh-graders, 48.1 per cent would come from within the city limits of Cumberland, as would 57.4 per cent of the 406 eighth graders.

434 Within City

Numerically, that would mean that 201 seventh graders and 233 eighth graders would come from within the city limits or 434 of the 824 enrolled. On the other hand only 200 of the pupils or 24.3 per cent would come from the LaVale area and 121 or 14.7 per cent from the Cresaptown area.

These figures have been projected on by the pupil personnel department to the 1967-68 school year. Even by that year 49.1 per cent of the seventh graders and 47 per cent of the eighth graders would come from within the city limits.

The point about these city school children is that they are not furnished school bus transportation as are those children living in suburban areas. City children either walk to school or their parents provide their transportation.

School bus transportation is not cheap. In the 1962-63 school budget of $423,000, of which $179,750 or 42.5 per cent comes from county funds.

J. Hubert Radcliffe, county supervisor of transportation, said yesterday that about 8,000 boys and girls are transported during the school year. That will make the per pupil cost of school transportation in the coming school year something like $52.87 per pupil or $22.47 per pupil in county funds alone.

Transported From City

If the proposed junior high school for North Cumberland would be built outside the city limits it would mean that school officials would have to transport all of the approximately 50 per cent of city children, who now provide their own transportation, to LaVale or Cresaptown.

On the other hand, comparatively few of the suburban children would have to provide their own transportation. It has been school board policy to provide school bus transportation for all suburban children except those living in the immediate vicinity of the school. Particularly, school officials want to keep children off such busy highways as U. S. Route 40 through LaVale.

Using the figure of 434 pupils, the city enrollment for the 1962-63 school year as projected, a suburban junior high school would add $22,945.58 to the school transportation cost each year of which $9,751.98 would be in county money.

The proposed North Cumberland Junior High School would take children who last year were sixth graders in Cresaptown, Centre Street, Columbia Street, Gephart, West Side, Mount Royal, Northeast, LaVale and Parkside schools.

Attention was focused on the proposed two new junior high schools yesterday when Mr. Webster conferred with the Board of County Commissioners. He discussed possible purchase of a tract of land in Cumberland for use in erecting a junior high school and perhaps a new community college in the future.

Owners of the tract wish to sell it all, which would be more than would be needed for the school. The additional would revert to the county commissioners who would sell it to recoup part of the purchase price.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said he was opposed to buying land in Cumberland, as he believes one of the two proposed new junior high schools should be built in the county outside the city.

Commissioner John T. Mason moved that the Board of Education be given permission to buy the tract. Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon made no comment and Commissioner Rowan said he would not second the motion.

School Prayer Ruling Cited In Finan's Talk

Jaycee's Dinner Is Held At Shrine Club

Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland, last night said he was startled by a ruling handed down earlier this week by the U. S. Supreme Court in reference to the uttering of a non-denominational prayer by school children of New York State.

He pointed out the highest court in the land ruled against such prayers in his talk last night at the Junior Association of Commerce annual installation of officers and awards dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mr. Finan reminded those in attendance that the public should become more concerned with the thinking of those in "high places."

He said the existence of a Supreme Being is evident in our "basic documents" including the Declaration of Independence and the preamble of the Constitution of the State of Maryland which apparently would not be readable in the classroom according to the ruling of the Supreme Court.

Danger Cited

With such rulings by the Supreme Court earlier this week the nation is embarking on a very dangerous road and future citizens could become "sterile of spiritual values" he added.

Going back in the nation's history he mentioned that George Washington fell on his knees in the snow at Valley Forge and asked for assistance from a Supreme Being for the Continental Army troops.

Mr. Finan was introduced by Joseph Gratton, vice president of the Jaycees who was installed last night along with other officers by Louis Woodring, Silver Spring, district vice president of the Jaycees.

Del. William Walsh, local attorney, was slated to be master of ceremonies but was unable to attend as his wife gave birth to a baby boy at Memorial Hospital yesterday evening.

Invocation was given by Rev. August W. Peters Jr., assistant rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and the pledge of allegiance was led by Dr. Jack Arch and the Jaycee Creed by Ronald J. Screen.

Install Officers

Officers for the coming year include John D. May, president, Mr. Gratton, and Alan Douglas, vice presidents; Gaylord Brooks, secretary; Robert Hutcheson, treasurer and Richard Cover, state director.

Following an address by the incoming president, Mr. May, the program ended and a dance was held with music by Tommy Smithem's orchestra.

A federal grand jury indicted Hafer on June 12 on a charge of assaulting Milton Kyhos, a special agent in the Intelligence Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

The indictment said the incident happened June 1 at the Cumberland Post Office.

Judge Chesnut finally permitted Hafer to represent himself at the arraignment, but warned Hafer that he was facing serious charges and should have a lawyer when his case comes up for trial. Hafer said he would.

J. Hardin Marion III, assistant U.S. attorney, said the trial probably would come up during August. Hafer's bond of $5,000 was continued.

Finan Rules:

New House Seats Open To Present Delegates

BALTIMORE (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan ruled Friday that present members of the Maryland General Assembly are eligible for nomination to 19 new House seats provided under the recent reapportionment bill.

Finan said a ban in the Maryland Constitution against legislators' taking offices created during their terms does not apply to the new seats.

The opinion answers a query of Del. Alice W. Hostetler, D-Montgomery, who may have had in mind the possible candidacies of two legislators who failed in bids for higher offices in the May 15 Democratic primary.

Dels. Blair Lee III and Alger Y. Barbee, both Montgomery County Democrats, sought unsuccessfully the nominations for U.S. Senate and State Senate, respectively.

The constitution declares that no member of the legislature may "during the whole period of time, for which he was elected, be eligible to any office, which shall have been created . . . during such term."

Finan and one of his assistants, Robert F. Sweeney, said it "would be torturing logic" to consider the provision barring a member of the current legislature from seeking an office created during the past four years.

Persons filling the new House seats will not take office until next January, which is after the terms of the present legislators have expired.

School Outside City Would Up Cost Of Buses

Projection Points To Building Here

In determining that two proposed new junior high schools should be built in Cumberland, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and the Allegany County Board of Education were influenced by a projection of school enrollment prepared by the Pupil Personnel Department under the direction of Homer S. Higgins, supervisor.

This projection was based on school census figures compiled in Mr. Higgins' office on the basis of children already born who live in the areas served by the respective schools.

These projections indicated a 1962-63 school year enrollment in the proposed North Cumberland Junior High School of 824 children. Of the 418 seventh-graders, 48.1 per cent would come from within the city limits of Cumberland, as would 57.4 per cent of the 406 eighth graders.

434 Within City

Numerically, that would mean that 201 seventh graders and 233 eighth graders would come from within the city limits or 434 of the 824 enrolled. On the other hand only 200 of the pupils or 24.3 per cent would come from the LaVale area and 121 or 14.7 per cent from the Cresaptown area.

These figures have been projected on by the pupil personnel department to the 1967-68 school year. Even by that year 49.1 per cent of the seventh graders and 47 per cent of the eighth graders would come from within the city limits.

The point about these city school children is that they are not furnished school bus transportation as are those children living in suburban areas. City children either walk to school or their parents provide their transportation.

School bus transportation is not cheap. In the 1962-63 school budget of $423,000, of which $179,750 or 42.5 per cent comes from county funds.

J. Hubert Radcliffe, county supervisor of transportation, said yesterday that about 8,000 boys and girls are transported during the school year. That will make the per pupil cost of school transportation in the coming school year something like $52.87 per pupil or $22.47 per pupil in county funds alone.

Transported From City

If the proposed junior high school for North Cumberland would be built outside the city limits it would mean that school officials would have to transport all of the approximately 50 per cent of city children, who now provide their own transportation, to LaVale or Cresaptown.

On the other hand, comparatively few of the suburban children would have to provide their own transportation. It has been school board policy to provide school bus transportation for all suburban children except those living in the immediate vicinity of the school. Particularly, school officials want to keep children off such busy highways as U. S. Route 40 through LaVale.

Using the figure of 434 pupils, the city enrollment for the 1962-63 school year as projected, a suburban junior high school would add $22,945.58 to the school transportation cost each year of which $9,751.98 would be in county money.

The proposed North Cumberland Junior High School would take children who last year were sixth graders in Cresaptown, Centre Street, Columbia Street, Gephart, West Side, Mount Royal, Northeast, LaVale and Parkside schools.

Attention was focused on the proposed two new junior high schools yesterday when Mr. Webster conferred with the Board of County Commissioners. He discussed possible purchase of a tract of land in Cumberland for use in erecting a junior high school and perhaps a new community college in the future.

Owners of the tract wish to sell it all, which would be more than would be needed for the school. The additional would revert to the county commissioners who would sell it to recoup part of the purchase price.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said he was opposed to buying land in Cumberland, as he believes one of the two proposed new junior high schools should be built in the county outside the city.

Commissioner John T. Mason moved that the Board of Education be given permission to buy the tract. Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon made no comment and Commissioner Rowan said he would not second the motion.

Man Sentenced On Motor Vehicle Count

George Washington Collins Jr., RD 4, city, was given a six-month sentence in Allegany County Jail on a motor vehicle charge yesterday at a hearing in Trial Magistrate Court.

Substitute Magistrate Harold E. Naughton found Collins guilty of second offense of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

Garrett County Girl Killed As Tractor Upsets

Fannie Mae Garber, 20, of the Gortner community, about five miles south of Oakland, was killed instantly yesterday when a tractor upset on the Garber farm.

The victim and her brother, Nelson, 19, were hauling a wagon load of hay up a grade on the farm when the tractor reared and overturned. Miss Garber was sitting on the front of the tractor when it reared and pinned her to the front of the wagon. Her brother, who was driving the tractor, was thrown clear.

Dr. James H. Feaster Jr., deputy medical examiner, said death was caused by suffocation. Cpl. Robert Henline of the State Police investigated the accident, which occurred about 5 p.m.

Miss Garber was born in Stark County, Ohio, December 19, 1941, a daughter of Christian A. and Elizabeth (Miller) Garber. The family has lived in Gortner the past 13 years.

She was a member of the Gortner Amish Church.

Besides her parents and her brother Nelson she is survived by five other brothers, Ura, RD 1, Oakland; Eli, Mt. Pleasant Mills, Pa.; William, Berlin, Ohio; Raymond, Dover, Ohio; and Amos, at home; four sisters, Mrs. Elan Yoder, Grantsville; Mary, Clara and Lovina Garber, all at home; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Miller, Ashland, Ohio, and paternal step-grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Garber, Sugar Creek, Ohio.

The body is at the Leighton Funeral Home, Oakland, and will be taken to the residence this evening.

A service will be conducted Monday at 1 p.m. (EST) at Gortner Amish Church by Bishop Norman Schrock. Interment will be in Slabaugh Cemetery.

900 Bicycle Tags Sold

About 900 bicycle tags were sold during the past two weeks at city playgrounds, Police Chief B Frank Gaffney said yesterday.

Some 835 had been sold up until last evening when Cpl. Oliver Cook of the City Police Department and members of the Optimist Club visited Centre Street Playground to inspect bikes and issue tags which are to be displayed by tomorrow.

Beginning Monday the tags will be sold at police headquarters between the hours of 10 a.m. and noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Local police will inspect the bicycles and the tags will be issued by Mrs. Margaret Sisk, clerk at the police station who said that last year over 2,000 tags were sold.

Nearly $500,000 in state and county real estate and personal property taxes was collected yesterday in the office of County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff, bringing the yield since about Memorial Day to $2,652,725.21.

Today is the deadline for the five per cent discount on county taxes. Mr. Orndorff's office in the Court House will be open from 8:30 a.m. until noon today. Mailed returns postmarked before midnight tonight also will be entitled to the five per cent discount.

Inauguration Ceremony Set Here Monday

Gibson To Be In Charge Of Service

Formal ceremonies are planned at City Hall Monday morning as members of the outgoing Mayor and Council complete their duties and turn the administration of the City of Cumberland to the new Mayor and Council.

The first meeting, planned at 10 a.m., will be the final session of the administration of Mayor J. Edwin Keech and Commissioners Lucile Roeder, G. Ray Light, Philmore Fleming and John J. Long. Retiring will be Mayor Keech and Mr. Fleming, who were defeated in the general election, and Mr. Long, who is a Democratic candidate for County Commissioner in the November general election.

The program for this session will include the invocation, roll call, reading of the minutes of the June 25 meeting, the usual order of business as presented by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery and remarks by members of the council or from the audience.

To Be 11th Mayor

At this point, the meeting will be declared "sine die" or finally adjourned, and the Mayor and Council will retire to seats in the first row of the Council Chambers.

The program for the inauguration meeting of Mayor-elect Earl D. Chaney, who will be the 11th mayor under the commission form of government will be in charge of Arthur B. Gibson, who retired last August as city comptroller.

Being master of ceremonies at the service will be an easy task for Mr. Gibson, who officiated at a number of such services during his many years of city service.

The inauguration ceremony will begin as the administration headed by Mayor-elect Chaney and Commissioners-elect Mrs. Roeder, Mr. Light, William V. Keegan and Frederick J. Hill are seated.

Mr. Gibson is scheduled to give a brief talk before the oath of office is administered to the new city officials by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Will Caucus

Members of the new administration are expected to speak at this point.

The invocation for the new Council and a final statement by Mr. Gibson will conclude the formal part of the program.

After the roll call, Mr. Chaney will direct City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery to proceed with the regular order of business.

At this point, orders for the appointment to various commissionerships and a city solicitor will be introduced.

Adoption of the orders is expected to be a mere formality, as the decisions as to who will serve as what must be decided at an organizational caucus which was scheduled for this afternoon.

Remarks from the new city officials and the audience will be invited before the session is adjourned.

Mr. Chaney and Mr. Hill were in City Hall yesterday afternoon, getting acquainted with members of the staff, and incumbent city officials were winding up their affairs.

Motorists Asked To Cooperate In Traffic Problem

The Maryland State Police have urged the citizens of Allegany County, especially truckers in the area, to try to avoid Frostburg when driving west on Route 40 this afternoon.

The barracks spokesman further stated that it would be wise for motorists to re-route their travel to Route 36, Mt. Savage Road, or Route 638, Parkersburg Road in order to miss a three-hour parade to be staged on Route 40 in Frostburg today starting at 1:30 p. m. The detours would bring drivers onto Route 40 at the Post Office at the west end of the city and save the police and drivers much trouble..

Emmett Kelly Takes Viewers Under Big Top

Emmett Kelly, who has made millions of people laugh by keeping silent, will do most of the talking in "Circus."

The "Project 20" show about life under the big top will be the first of a series of selected repeats on the "Du Pont Show of the Week," Sunday, July 1, 10-11 p. m. (NYT), NBC-TV.

Some people are surprised that Kelly — probably the greatest clown in history—agreed to appear on the show without make-up. They're even more surprised that the famous mimic will use his speaking voice.

"Normally, I keep my mouth shut," said Kelly. "But the circus is close to my heart. And I want to tell people about it."

Kelly's voice is deep and pleasant, reminiscent of his Ozark Mountains upbringing.

Kelly's career began with a touring carnival, "Irene Lackman's Dog and Pony Act." It was a third-rate show, but it gave the aspiring clown excellent training.

"There was just one thing wrong with being a clown," said Kelly. "The girls always went for the trapeze artists.

"I thought I was a pretty dashing young fellow in those days—and I was jealous. So, at nights, I rehearsed on the trapeze and high wire. For ten years I gave up clowning to do a trapeze act.

"Then I fell down and broke a few bones. That taught me a lesson—it's safer down on the ground. I've been more interested in laughs than thrills ever since."

"But I prefer to remember the good times," said the clown. "And that's what this 'Circus' show on TV, is about. There are several acts—like Norma, the trapeze artist, and the Wallendas on the high wire—but we also try to get behind the scenes."

Kelly usually has no problems making children or adults, for that matter, roar with laughter. But a few onlookers have stumped him.

"I've heard people say that the circus is dead. So I'm going on TV to tell them, 'The circus is more alive than it ever was'.

Actress Multi-Talented

NEW YORK (NEA) — When they were handing out talent, they were very generous to Carol Lawrence.

Not only does she have beauty, but her star also shines in singing (Broadway), dancing (West Side Story and Subways Are for Sleeping), acting (many TV dramatic roles), womanly skills (cooks beautifully and used to sew most of her own clothes), athletics (taking golf lessons and was high school swimming champion and basketball and volleyball team captain), art (has taken painting lessons), language proficiency (dubbed in French version of her movie "A View from the Bridge"), and friendship quotient (adored by stagehands and can win friends at the drop of a smile).

Shows With Sea Backdrop Seen

On the theory that "Medic"-type shows will have run their course next season, many sponsors have instructed their representatives to seek a type of program that hasn't been overdone. Insiders say the major trend for the 1963-64 season will be stories of sea adventures.

Concrete evidence of this movement are the overtures now being made to one of the leading novelists of ocean sagas, Robert F. Mirvish. Already the author of a dozen action-filled books that range in local from Murmansk to Montevideo and from the North Pole to the Persian Gulf, Mirvish believes he knows the reason why.

"Novels with a sea background offer the television viewer a new type of escapist entertainment, one that Westerns and gangster films don't supply.

'Ziegfeld Touch' Rerun Set July 22

"The Ziegfeld Touch" — a musical biography of Florenz Ziegfeld, narrated on-and-off camera by screen star Joan Crawford — will be repeated Sunday, July 22 (10-11 p.m. EDT) on "Du Pont Show of the Week."

In addition to Miss Crawford, "The Ziegfeld Touch" (all but 20 minutes of which is in color) stars Marilyn Lovell, Barbara Cook, Jack Irwin and Danny Meehan.

That's Spirit

Paul Henning, whose "Beverly Hillbillies" will be a CBS-TV fall entry, tells of the depressed Hollywood actor who had been unemployed for so long he couldn't remember when he had last worked. He was finally offered a summer stock role for a mere $10, to play the ghost in "Hamlet." He took it just to show the old spirit!

Shows With Sea Backdrop Seen

On the theory that "Medic"-type shows will have run their course next season, many sponsors have instructed their representatives to seek a type of program that hasn't been overdone. Insiders say the major trend for the 1963-64 season will be stories of sea adventures.

Concrete evidence of this movement are the overtures now being made to one of the leading novelists of ocean sagas, Robert F. Mirvish. Already the author of a dozen action-filled books that range in local from Murmansk to Montevideo and from the North Pole to the Persian Gulf, Mirvish believes he knows the reason why.

"Novels with a sea background offer the television viewer a new type of escapist entertainment, one that Westerns and gangster films don't supply.

'Ziegfeld Touch' Rerun Set July 22

"The Ziegfeld Touch" — a musical biography of Florenz Ziegfeld, narrated on-and-off camera by screen star Joan Crawford — will be repeated Sunday, July 22 (10-11 p.m. EDT) on "Du Pont Show of the Week."

In addition to Miss Crawford, "The Ziegfeld Touch" (all but 20 minutes of which is in color) stars Marilyn Lovell, Barbara Cook, Jack Irwin and Danny Meehan.
